4 or 5 Communists Killed

GIs, Koreans Clash

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — American soldiers manning a guard post in the Korean demilitarized zone clashed with a North Korean patrol Wednesday afternoon in one of the most serious gunfights since the 1953 armistice. The U.N. command said four North Koreans were killed, but North Korea claimed it had five dead and one wounded.

The U.N. command said there were no U.S. casualties.

North Korea's Central News Agency said the North Koreans were civil policemen on "routine duty" in the north portion of the demilitarized zone 1.2 miles east of Panmunjom.

Sgt. Robert W. Hawkins of Charleston, W. Va., in charge of the guard post, was a witness at the investigation of the incident. He said he opened fire when surprised by a group of advancing North Koreans who suddenly appeared about 45 feet away "with rifles ready to fire."

Came Under Fire
Hawkins testified he and two of his men, who were about 250 feet downhill from the guard post, immediately came under automatic weapons fire from woods on the North Korean side of the armistice line.

The U.N. command said the North Koreans crossed the armistice line into the U.N. portion of the demilitarized zone, and after the American guards spotted them there was an exchange of fire "including fire from North Korean concealed positions across the military demarcation line," which divides the demilitarized zone.

An informed source said a 15-minute gunfight took place after a U.S. patrol challenged the group of seven or eight North Koreans and the Communists opened fire.

The clash occurred about 165 feet south of the military demarcation line and about 35 miles northwest of Seoul, the source added.

U.S. Accused
The Communist account claimed "the U.S. side fired all of a sudden hundreds of machine gun and automatic rifle shots" into the Communist side of the truce zone.

The North Koreans also claimed the Americans agreed to an on-the-spot investigation

Wednesday night but failed to send observers. The U.N. command asked for a meeting today of the Joint Military Armistice Commission, but the Communists refused.

Each side accused the other of violating the Korean armistice.

Former State GI Killed in Action

War Declared 50 Years Ago Today

Many Recall It, Others Weren't Born

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty years ago today the United States entered World War I — called the Great War until a greater one came along — and stepped toward a role in world leadership.

On that day, Lyndon B. Johnson was an 8-year-old in a Texas hamlet.

Hubert H. Humphrey, 6, was learning his ABCs in Wallace, S.D.

Robert F. Kennedy was not born until some eight years later.

Still There
But there is one man who was in Congress when war was declared April 6, 1917 who is still there — Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz. He'll be 90 next fall.

Hayden came to the House in 1912 on admission of Arizona as a state. He served there until elected to the Senate in 1926.

In a war anniversary interview, Hayden recalled long hours of debate before the House passed the war resolution 373 to 50 in the early morning hours of April 6.

But of all that was said, Hayden related, "I remember most distinctly the remarks of Jeanette Rankin, the lady from Montana."

Miss Rankin, a Republican and the first woman elected to the House, did not respond until her name had been called four times on the roll call. Then, close to tears, she stood and began to talk about volunteering.

Served Until End
"By the middle of 1918, when this ban had kind of been forgotten, four of us went down and enlisted and served until after the armistice."

He named the other three as retired Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, then a Texas representative; another number of his House colleagues who came to talk about volunteering.

Hayden related that with the declaration of war he and a

Garrison Gets Indictment of College Student

Formerly Lived

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Jim Garrison's controversial Kennedy assassination conspiracy probe has spawned its second perjury indictment.

Layton Patrick Mariens, 24, a college student who once lived with David W. Ferrie, was indicted Wednesday by the Orleans Parish (County) grand jury on a charge he lied under oath.

"It's an attempt by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison to discredit any and all witnesses who did not bolster the Garrison investigation," said Mariens in Lafayette, La.

Arrangement was made for Mariens to surrender at the sheriff's office today, with bond set at $2,500.

The indictment was issued about three hours after Clay L. Shaw, 54, a retired New Orleans executive, pleaded innocent at arraignment in Criminal District Court on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

Mariens' indictment was based on his testimony of March 29 while being questioned before the grand jury by Garrison in regard to the burglary of an explosives storage bunker near Houma, La.

Relieved at Preparations

Governor Inspects Floods

LA CROSSE (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles flew over the flooding Mississippi River Wednesday and expressed confidence that the rising waters could be caged.

"It's kind of a relief to see things as stable as they are, that the people are as well prepared," Knowles said.

The governor, flying in an Air National Guard plane, covered 90 miles of the Mississippi from Cassville to La Crosse, then took an auto tour of this soggy city that suffered $80 million damage in the record floods of 1965.

The river was lapping two feet above banktops here Wednesday and still climbing toward a crest at 3½ feet over flood stage Saturday. Other crests were forecast at 4½ feet over flood level at Prairie du Chien and five feet above at Cassville early next week.

State Civil Defense Director Bruce Bishop, who accompanied Knowles, said, "They're all without question fighting a terrific fight that comes from the experience of '65."

'Panic Calls'
The bulging, gray waters were pushing their way into lowlands at La Crosse and Prairie du Chien, but the flooding bore little resemblance to the record rampage of two years ago when the peak reached nearly six feet over banktops in this riverside city.

Knowles said he made the four-hour trip for a first-hand look after his office was flooded with "panic calls" from Eau Claire and Durand all the way downstream to Cassville.

"We found conditions are much better than we had anticipated and the preparation is excellent," the governor said.

10 Leftists Arrested in Bomb Plot

BERLIN (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in West Berlin today and was given a heavy guard after a police roundup of 10 young extremists who had fashioned explosives to make a possible attempt on his life.

The vice president flew here to reaffirm U.S. support for the Communist-surrounded city after conferences with government officials in Bonn. He said the talks convinced him the friendship between the two countries is strong and secure.

Humphrey arrived at John F. Kennedy Platz in front of City Hall and was greeted by about 2,000 persons despite threatening weather. It was in that plaza that Kennedy in 1963 declared to cheering thousands: "Ich bin ein Berliner (I am a Berliner.)"

Police said they seized the 10 plotters Wednesday night as they were preparing explosive bombs and plastic bags filled with chemicals for an assault on the vice president. The youths' attorney said they told him they were preparing smoke bombs.

Disciples of Mao
It was reported that some of those arrested were members of the leftist German Socialist Students Group. An informed non-German source said the youths were disciples of Red China's Mao Tse-tung.

Authorities said that a preliminary examination by police specialists showed that the confiscated chemicals "in the right mixture were suitable for the production of generally dangerous explosives."

A spokesman added, however, that an "exact analysis still had not been determined."

"You could conclude that they could have been used for very dangerous throwing objects," he added.

One source said the explosives were to be thrown along Humphrey's route and into the city hall during his visit.

First Incident
It was the first incident since Humphrey arrived in West Germany Wednesday and competed for attention with the diplomatic success of his mission to Bonn.

As he arrived at Bonn airport for the flight to Berlin, Humphrey told newsmen his discussions with West German chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, foreign minister Willy Brandt and President Heinrich Lübke were "constructive and helpful, exactly what they should have been."

Johnson Names No. 2 Man in War

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today the assignment of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., 52, the Army's vice chief of staff, as No. 2 U.S. military commander in Vietnam.

Abrams, who has more combat command experience than any other general officer in the Army, will be deputy to the top commander in the war arena—Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

Both Pentagon and White House officials emphasized that there was no plan for Abrams to succeed Westmoreland, a West Point classmate.

New Invasion Eyed

Communists Stage Big Raid, Jailbreak

SAIGON, (AP) — Communist troops smashed at U. S. and Vietnamese military positions and staged a jailbreak today at Quang Tri, a provincial capital 16 miles south of the border that would be a primary objective of any new mass invasion attempt from the north.

They ringed the city in raids between midnight and dawn. They attacked U.S. anti-aircraft gun positions and the headquarters of two Vietnamese army regiments and shelled the U.S. military advisers' compound.

They freed more than 200 prisoners from the provincial jail — most of whom had been picked up as Viet Cong suspects.

10 Americans Die
Initial reports said 10 American soldiers were killed and 13 wounded while the Communists left 47 men dead. Two American government civilian employees were injured.

Eight trucks were burned at one post and four jeeps and three trucks were damaged at another. At a small airstrip, two light observation planes were shot up.

The Communists are known to have some 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars in the province and just to the north above the 17th Parallel. They made a serious effort to move into the province in strength last year and are known to thirst for a propaganda victory there.

Most of the fighting in Quang Tri has been done by North Vietnamese regulars, and the Viet Cong guerrilla units there are laced with North Vietnamese replacements.

Few Marines
How many Reds were involved in the attacks early today was not immediately known. The attacks centered on the provincial capital which is near the coast and about a dozen miles north of Hue. There are few U. S. Marine units in the immediate area.

Surtax Might Be Delayed

Idea Still Good, Officials Say, but July 1 Date Could Hurt Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration appears quietly to be backing away from a July 1 effective date for its proposed 6 per cent surtax on most income taxes.

But the surtax itself, key officials insisted today, is still very much alive and will be needed during the second half of the year to help stem inflation in what they predict will be an expanding economy.

The critical question now is in the timing.

Although the July 1 effective date is still considered a possibility by the administration — "It's still in the ballpark," one analyst said — the chances reportedly are good that it might eventually be abandoned officially.

Reasons are the opposition in Congress to the surtax itself and the current sluggishness in the economy, which is deeper than government economists anticipated in January when the surtax was proposed.

Latest Figures

Officials want the latest economic figures in hand when they approach Congress later this spring with their formal surtax proposal.

By June, when the House Ways and Means Committee has indicated it will hold hearings on the surtax, government economists hope they will have the economic facts to support their plan.

But the general coolness of Congress could prompt a later effective date — Sept. 1 or Oct. 1 for example.

Administration sources said a decision on details for the surtax — and exactly when it might become effective — won't be made for at least another month.

By that time all the first quarter figures will be available, as will preliminary estimates for April. This should also give some indication of possible later trends in the economy.

Start of Upturn

Some government experts

hope, however, that the beginnings of an upturn might be reflected in statistics yet to be published for March and April.

A rise in retail sales in both March and April is foreseen by some government analysts.

But the Gross National Product — the value of all goods and services produced in the economy — is expected to show one of its smallest advances in recent years for the first three months of 1967, a factor which could reinforce opposition to the surtax.

Figures won't be available until later this month but some experts foresee a rise in the $5 billion to $8 billion range or even lower.

Quarterly increases last year ranged from $11.1 billion to $16.8 billion. GNP rose by only $6.3 billion during the fourth quarter of 1964.

But administration economists contend the high rate of savings by American consumers the past several months can't last much longer with personal income continuing to rise.

Consumer caution is reflected in the sluggish growth of consumer installment credit, declining auto sales and the more than $2 billion Americans stashed away in savings and loan associations during the first three months of this year.

Former Enemy Soldiers Scout For GI Troops

Pointing Out Tunnels One of Major Chores For Ex-Viet Cong

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is hiring former Communist soldiers to help American troops locate Viet Cong guerrillas and their hideouts in South Vietnam, Pentagon sources report.

This new intelligence program was launched early this year in extreme northern areas of the country near the demilitarized zone. The repatriated enemy troops are called Kit Carson scouts.

They lead Marine patrols into the countryside to identify Communist guerrillas — usually indistinguishable from the friendly populace among whom they live — and locate enemy tunnels, arms and ammunition.

Sixty scouts, most of them former Viet Cong who were trained in North Vietnam and thus are intimate with enemy operations, are on the U.S. payroll.

Live With Marines

For their hazardous turncoat assignment the scouts draw $40 a month, more than a South Vietnamese private gets. Because they are prime targets for assassination, the scouts live with the Marines.

The one-time Communists are screened long and hard before being allowed to lead American men, who could be vulnerable to ambushes.

Officers say that from a security standpoint the scouts have proved satisfactory. None has betrayed his new employers. One has been killed.

Limited Program

The program, unique from its payroll standpoint, is limited to the present 60 scouts.

"We hope to get authority for more," an officer said. "This has tremendous potential for separating the good guys from the bad in the villages."

The Agency for International Development holds the purse strings of the pseudo-spy effort. Thousands of other defectors from Viet Cong ranks have been put to good use by the South Vietnamese government.

At the recent Guam conference, South Vietnam's Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky reported that 10,000 of 50,000 former Viet Cong who returned to government allegiance are now serving in the South Vietnamese forces.

Corazon to Face Defender

Survivor Points Out Speck

By F. RICHARD CICCONE

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Public defender Gerald Getty is basing his defense of Richard Speck on an attempt to destroy Corazon Amurao's identification of the 25-year-old seaman as the killer of eight nurses.

Miss Amurao, 24, a nurse from the Philippines, faces a cross-examination by Getty on her account of how the nurses were slain.

The young woman was on the witness stand for four hours Wednesday. She sobbed into her white handkerchief twice but otherwise her face was expressionless. Her voice was mostly calm as she told of the night in which her eight roommates were strangled and stabbed on the South Side of Chicago.

The confrontation between the survivor of the July 6 mass killing and Speck in the murder trial came after prosecutor William Martin asked, "Did you wake up at any time Wednesday night, July 13?"

Pushed In Door

"I heard a knock in our bedroom," the witness said. "It was about four knocks. I went to the door and I unlocked it and I started to open it and at once there's someone pushing the door."

"I saw a man." At this point the 4-foot-10, black-haired nurse cried.

"If you see that same man in the courtroom today, will you please step down and point him out," Martin asked. The girl walked deliberately from the witness stand to the defense table. She raised her arm and pointed a finger at Speck.

"This is the man!" she said. She described the intruder as having marks on his face, dark clothes and blond hair combed to the back. Martin asked if the defendant looked any different than he did when she first saw him.

Firm Identification

Getty said he would take several hours today to cross examine the witness. Miss Amurao was firm in her identification of the defendant. In subsequent testimony she continually referred to the intruder as "Speck." And at every opportunity she glowered at the defendant.

She said Speck forced her and Miss Merlita Gargullo to leave their room and go to the south bedroom where three other student nurses were sleeping.

"What happened when you went to the south bedroom?" Martin asked.

"I rushed to the rear of the bedroom, going to the small closet," Miss Amurao said. "Miss Gargullo and Miss Valentina Pasion was behind me."

The three girls, all from the Philippines, were in the closet five minutes before an American nurse persuaded them to come out. The three Americans in the room were Pamela Wilkening, Patricia Matusek, and Nina Schmale.

Gave Him Money

Miss Amurao said Speck told the girls he needed money to go to New Orleans and that each got out her purse and gave him some bills.

She said Speck pulled out a knife, sliced a bed sheet into strips, and began tying the girls' ankles and wrists.

"Then Speck counted at us, by pointing the gun, and he said, 'one, two, three, four, five, six.'"

She said Speck heard a female voice downstairs and stood behind the door waiting as Gloria Davy entered the room.

"Miss Davy was surprised and she screamed in a low voice. And then Speck thrust the gun close towards Davy's body."

"When Speck was tying Miss Davy's ankles, Miss Davy said, 'Why are you doing that for?' We are student nurses." Then Speck answered "Oh, you are a student nurse," and Speck was smiling during this time."

One Led Out

The witness said the killer cut the sheets on Miss Wilkening's ankles and led her from the room.

"After about one minute, I heard Miss Wilkening say, 'ah.' It was like a sigh," she said.

Suzanne Farris and Mary Ann Jordan were the last victims to enter the bedroom. Miss Amurao said Speck did not bind them, but ordered them out of the room. He followed, closing the door.

In short sentences she described how each of the victims was led or dragged to her deaths in other rooms of the house.

She said she heard water running in the bathroom shortly before the killer returned for another victim. She said the intruder was absent from the large bedroom 20-25 minutes with each girl.

Military Likely to Get Pay Hikes; Other Raises in Doubt

House Unsure About Boosting Postal Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appears in a mood to give the military a quick pay raise, but action may be slower on President Johnson's companion requests for a hike in postal rates and a pay raise for federal employees.

Johnson asked Wednesday for a penny per letter increase as part of an $800 million postal rate boost and for pay raises which could add up to $2.5 billion.

"We'll do it so fast. It will make your head swim," Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the House Armed Services Committee, said in reference to the military pay proposal.

But there appeared to be a question of how much of the postal and civilian pay raise would be granted.

Comprehensive Approach

The postal plan, including a 6-cent charge for first class letters and 9 cents for air mail, was termed "the most comprehensive approach to adjustment in our complex postal rate structure" in many years by Chairman Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

"I'm inclined to support it," said Rep. Robert J. Corbett of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican committee member.

In the past, the committee has increased administration pay rate proposals for the government's 2.5 million civilian employees, but has trimmed down requested postal rate hikes.

Wage Increases

Since 1962, the civilian employees have received pay raises averaging about 23 per cent in a move to make salaries comparable with those in private industry. Johnson's new proposal includes an average boost of 45 per cent effective Oct. 1 with further increases Oct. 1, 1968 and Oct. 1, 1969.

Officials said the 45 per cent average military pay increase most of the money would come for 3.37 million men would be in basic pay, producing an acceded to the combination of a 5.6 per cent basic pay increase of 5.6 per cent, and quarters and per cent. This would be effective Oct. 1.

Persistence Pays Off

Widow Can't Surrender To String of Misfortune

NEW YORK (AP) — First death took Sue Comet's husband, then the state bulldozed away the coin-operated laundry the couple had pumped $38,500 into and counted on to pay for the education of their three sons.

"Gone," Mrs. Comet recalled today, "just like that, gone. I didn't own the place and they condemned it for a construction project — $38,500 we put in, and it was gone — not a nickel in compensation."

The state ruled that only the owner of the building was entitled to payment for his investment and that Mrs. Comet had no further recourse.

Tracks Run Through

There was legal maneuvering to delay the razing of the laundry in suburban Wantagh, Long Island, and talks with congressmen but last summer railroad tracks were run through where the building once stood.

Mrs. Comet was able to salvage her washing machines, but she said their worth was equal to the cost of moving them elsewhere. Special plumbing, boilers and cesspools were impossible to replace.

"I was naive," Mrs. Comet said. "I didn't really think in my heart that they could do it to me. After all, we were there for seven years and they understood how much we had put into it. But they went ahead."

Mostly Double Talk

With the laundry gone, there was only Social Security and veterans benefits for herself and the boys, Stanley, 11, Howard, 16, and Michael, a student at the University of Buffalo.

"I thought the best thing to do was to try for a loan and just sit tight. Of course I protested to everybody, but got mostly double talk back," she said.

Now Mrs. Comet is going back into the laundry business. With the help of Rep. Herbert Tenzer, D-N.Y., she was able to obtain a $20,000 loan from the Small Business Administration. A new storefront has been rented in Massapequa near the family's Seaford home, and it will open April 18.

"I didn't go on relief because I don't believe in it," Mrs. Comet said.

The Constitution Is Amended

The approval by the voters of Wisconsin of all eight amendments to the state constitution is most significant. There was considerable concern in official state circles, including the legislature, that putting that number of propositions before the electorate at one time would create confusion and that the normal reaction of voters would be to vote No.

One of the most concentrated educational campaigns we can ever remember in connection with amendment referenda was conducted in recent weeks by all the communications media of the state and by committees formed to support individual amendments. We can only conclude that the educational campaign was successful, and that furthermore Wisconsin voters will arrive at the right answer when they are properly informed.

There was considerable sentiment growing in the state that if these amendments failed to receive popular endorsement the necessity would arise to call a constitutional convention to review and revise the state's charter legal document in toto.

But the results of Tuesday's voting should now encourage the legislature to proceed to put other constitutional modernizations up for popular approval this fall or at the latest next spring. For there are a number of other propositions in the legislative mill which are of extreme importance in modernizing state government structures, including the legitimizing of state debt and the repeal of the uniformity rule for county government.

Justice Hansen's Victory

Judge Robert W. Hansen's election to the Wisconsin Supreme Court Tuesday was a most remarkable victory in many ways. In his bid for election he was challenging the chief justice of the court and the tradition that Wisconsin voters on only a few occasions in the last century have failed to return an incumbent justice to the bench.

Chief Justice George C. Currie had widespread backing from all the organizations which are supposedly influential in judicial elections, the state bar, the AFL-CIO, leading representatives of both political parties, and practically every newspaper in the state.

But Judge Hansen obviously made some telling points with the voters in his criticism of Justice Currie's support of a code of ethics for the judiciary, and the Justice's attempt some time ago to bar the press and the public from judicial conferences on court procedures. Judge Hansen was also an outspoken supporter of the press in the current debate over the constitutional rights of freedom of the press and of fair trial.

Backgrounding the contest between Judge Hansen and Justice Currie, however, was an obvious displeasure among many voters with the trend of the United States Supreme Court to write new law, particularly in the field of the rights of defendants in criminal investigations and prosecutions. There are also critics of the Wisconsin Supreme Court who charge our court with usurping the prerogatives of the legislature in some decisions. Prominent among these is Speaker Harold Froehlich of Appleton who was one of the few attorneys and political leaders who publicly championed Hansen's campaign.

Justice Hansen is well-qualified to take a seat on the state's highest court. We are most sympathetic over this abrupt end to Justice Currie's judicial career a few years short of retirement age. But the voters have not lessened the stature of the supreme court in any way by choosing Justice Hansen. They have, however, posed a caution to that court that they are uneasy about the trend in judicial law interpretation.

Krazy Kat or Top Banana?

Just as authorities began to pass laws to try to prevent the unsupervised use of LSD, the younger generation came up with a new one. And so far there isn't any law governing the smoking of bananas.

The control of mild narcotics is a worldwide problem and perhaps causes more concern than failures to prevent the sale and use of the really dangerous drugs such as heroin and opium. The workmen in French Somaliland who earn between $50 and $100 a month spend between $25 and $50 of each paycheck on kat, a shrub cultivated for the stimulant effect of its leaves either chewed or used in tea. Reportedly kat does little serious damage but it produces a feeling of euphoria which is contributory to "political discussion, although it does not favor work," according to a French official in the area. Because of the riots in French Somaliland after the independence referendum last month, the French halted some of the air shipments of kat from Ethiopia. But the cultivation and sale of kat is pretty big business to Ethiopia and there were threats to cut off the shipments of vegetables as well so the flights were once more permitted.

Rebellious youth in the larger cities have turned to what apparently are the very mild effects of smoking the scrapings from banana skins. It seems likely that they are seeking to flaunt the use of a non banned narcotic as much as get a lift from the effect. And one of these days someone in the southwestern desert will begin to cultivate kat.

No Longer a Good Communist

The reports seeping out of China indicate that there have been efforts made to send the militant Red Guards home because the violence began to get out of control and the youthful members were becoming a burden on the countryside. But the battle to establish Mao Tse-tung as the only voice of authority and salvation continues.

A major problem in any totalitarian nation is how to degrade points of view that the regime had at one time upheld and advocated. Liu Shao-chi, still the nominal chief of state and at one time considered to be the likely successor to Mao, once wrote a book titled How To Be A Good Communist. It was promoted by the government almost as enthusiastically as Mao's poetic versions of philosophy.

But Liu is now considered by the Mao forces to be a threat to their power and his book is labeled deviationist. It is really only a collection of lectures delivered at of 28 years ago at the Institute of Marxism-Leninism, although the book was revised in 1962 and an English translation was made at that time. According to the Mao version, however, the masses are warned never to "be deceived by the book How To Be A Good Communist. This book is eyewash, departs from the actual class struggle, from revolution and from political struggle. It says nothing about the fundamental questions of revolution and political power, nothing about the dictatorship of the proletariat. It advertises the idealistic cultivation of personality. It advocates obliquely bourgeois individualism and slavism and opposes Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung's thought. . . This book's evil influence must be thoroughly eliminated."

It is always interesting to note that it took so long for Mao's faction of the party to find out that Liu and his book were dastardly infiltrators. But they are using all sorts of propaganda methods now to expose it all. This includes denunciations in the policy journal of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, the use of loud speakers on trucks and even the loudspeakers in downtown Peking turned up to full volume so no one can miss a word.

Clearly there is little chance of any political reunion between Mao and Liu. But the latter still must be somehow divested of his title by approved methods. This means a session of the National People's Congress in which Liu in all probability must stand and listen to the charges and face the kangaroo court which will strip him of any remnants of authority.

From this distance it is still difficult to determine whether the Red Guard violence, at least at the beginning, was merely a softening up process so that Mao could take unopposed control of the Communist apparatus in China. At this time at least it appears that Mao is in pretty solid command which means a continued division of Communist allegiance in the world.

Favors Equal Rights for Women

100 YEARS AGO
Crescent for April 20, 1897.

We are asked where we stand upon this question of extending the elective franchise to Woman. We supposed everybody knew without asking, as we have not been in habit of concealing our opinions on any public matter.

We are most emphatically in favor of Woman Suffrage.

Woman is the equal of man, and entitled to equal privilege and protection of life and property. The law and public safety holds her equally responsible for any transgression of the criminal code . . .

Let the false barriers be broken down; give her a chance to transact all business for which she is adapted; give her equal opportunities for advancement and improvement; and men would soon cease to prate of her inferiority.

True, she may not be as physically strong as Man, and if it is true she is inferior intellectually, this fact is due to the false system of society, to her exclusion from almost every profession and pursuit for which she is peculiarly fitted.

Kraft Writes

Humphrey's Trip to Europe Is Sign Of His New Importance as LBJ Aide

WASHINGTON — The last time the vice president went to Europe he played second fiddle to a couple of astronauts. This time he is talking officially and at length with the heads of government in London, Bonn, Paris and Rome. Why the change?

Kraft

It would be dandy, just dandy, to be able to say that it flowed from Hubert Humphrey's fundamental decency as a person. It would even be nice to think of it as a just reward for years of uncompromising service. But that is not the way the world works, least of all the political world.

In fact, Mr. Humphrey's new status is a matter of relative leverage. He has become strong recently because the President has recently become weak. The vice president is important because the President needs him.

NOT NEEDED THEN

When the Johnson-Humphrey administration began, back in 1965, that was not the case. Thanks to the Great Society program and the responsible foreign policy stance taken in the race against Barry Goldwater, the President had developed a personal access to the liberal constituency on the smaller farms and in the big cities, the trade unions, the civil rights groups and the intellectual community that normally looked toward Mr. Humphrey.

In those circumstances, Mr. Humphrey was a fifth wheel. The President assigned to him all the unpalatable "hard" subjects alien to his past, and kept him away from the "soft" subjects that were his special dish of tea.

Thus Mr. Humphrey was vested with special responsibility for the space program, and dispatched to Vietnam and the Asian countries fighting there. His hands were kept off such issues as disarmament and civil rights.

As the Vietnamese war deepened, however, the President has found himself in more and more trouble with the vice president's normal constituency. The President now needs Mr. Humphrey to maintain rapport with liberal groups in the nation. His 1968 election chances would almost certainly be significantly worse, if he did not have Mr. Humphrey running by his side.

In this situation, the President has allowed, even encouraged, the vice president to cultivate anew his old friends. After the 1966 election, the vice president was given the job of re-building the Democratic Party in the farm and industrial states. In recent trips around the country, he has been calling on students (at Stanford), the unions (the AFL-CIO convention in Miami) and farmers (the National Farmers' Union convention in Oklahoma City).

The European trip is more of the same. Mainly because of his preoccupation with Vietnam, the President has not been able to keep the vague date that he made to visit Western Europe this spring. Without anybody exactly saying so, Mr. Humphrey is helping the President slip the commitment. He is quite literally on the continent as the President's stand-in.

MEETING OLD FRIENDS

By no mere chance, moreover, the vice president's mission involves him with old friends on familiar matters. The friends are chiefly West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt and his Social Democratic Party, and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and his Labor Party. The main subject matter is the chief current instrument for detente — the non-proliferation treaty limiting the spread of nuclear weapons.

The treaty has been having a spot of trouble in West Germany because of right-wing charges that it compromises the German national interest. These charges are intensified by a feeling that Britain which supports the treaty is further selling out the German interest by pushing for a withdrawal of allied troops on German soil.

The vice president can smooth over the difficulties in two ways. For one thing, he can induce the British Laborites to be a little nicer to the Germans. At the same time he can strengthen the hand of the Social Democrats, who will then be in position to pull the Bonn government toward a stronger stand on behalf of the treaty.

But if the vice president can undoubtedly have a beautiful influence on foreign politics, there remains a major question about his influence here. It is a question whether he can overcome the psychological barrier of having been a dependent to the point where he can use his increased political leverage to have influence on the President and his policies.

Too Many Farmers Are 'Contented'

Editor, Post-Crescent:

To the Contented Farmer's Wife!

You are contented! Well God bless you. That doesn't alter the fact that the farmer is not getting his fair share of the economy in this country. Why do you suppose the farmer is in this awful situation? Because too many farmers are too busy being contented.

Show me any other business that keeps busy being contented. Show me any other business that operates on a fractional dollar for income and makes a go of it.

You may have a right to be contented, but please don't confuse that with the problems that are really important and should be solved.

Many Lobbyists Had Previous Experience As State Legislators

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Many of the best known lobbyists and the most successful operators in the business of lobbying the State Legislature, as noted here earlier, entered the trade through accident rather than design.

Wyngaard

The most prominent of the men sitting in lobbying row in the capitol today, as for many earlier years, did not plan to become lobbyists, or train for the work, but were drawn into it through the circumstance that they once held seats in the legislature, observed the work of the lobbies, and decided that upon retirement they would look for such clientele. Thus many of the most widely known professional lobbyists are lawyers who served a couple of terms in the legislature as younger men.

experience and training, as they employers saw it.

OLD PROS

The evolution of the lobbying careers of other well-known men in the legislature's "third house," as the sophisticates sometimes describe it, was similar. John P. Varda, who labors on behalf of the legislative causes of the commercial truckers, served in the Assembly before World War II. His watchful rivals, Byron Oetby and Walter Nortman of the Wisconsin Railroad Association, served identical apprenticeships.

Avuncular M. J. Clancy, affectionately regarded by most of his registered lobbyist colleagues, represents the coal interests and others. He tells delightful stories of his days as a state senator in the 1930s. Ray Sheehy of a Milwaukee gas company and G. H. Stordock of the American Legion are also among the patriarchs of the profession, as seniority is measured there. William Double of the Wisconsin Savings and Loan League, Earl Mullen of the barbers' association, and Cliff Dorr of the trading stamp lobby, got into professional legislative advocacy after learning the basics of parliamentary procedure and political relations as holders of legislative seats.

SUCCESSFUL FREE LANCER

Perhaps the most successful of the free lance lobbyists, in breadth of practice, is Robert Heider, former holder of a Milwaukee Assembly seat. Heider has taken on some of the most profitable accounts of the late F. Clinton McCarthy, the legendary lobbyist of modern times in Wisconsin.

Other familiar personalities represent political party association or experience or training in a variety of governmental capacities that resulted in widespread legislative acquaintanceship.

An industry or a trade association or any typical group that has a legislative objective is not inclined to be fussy about partisanship. In a legislature such as Wisconsin's that in recent times has become more evenly aligned as between the two parties, a major lobbying drive will manage to recruit as advocates double teams. One lobbyist can be quickly identified as a Republican by Republican legislators, while his associate is covering the Democratic side of the aisle.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When a reform succeeds, the sheer energy and power it required to attain its goal usually carries it beyond its goal, and eventually it becomes necessary to reform the reform.

The Biblical warning that it is extremely difficult for a rich man to enter Heaven is almost useless as long as the rich are able to feel that they can buy enough fire extinguishers to make Hell habitable.

The former schoolmates we run into three decades later almost always look at least 10 years older than we look to ourselves; and it is a mischievous trick of the mind that we are incapable of accepting the fact that we look at least 10 years older to them.

The worst kind of remorse is not that we have done what we have done — but that we have become what we have become; remorse over misdeeds can be creative and regenerative, but remorse over lost character is insoluble.

There are no perfectly straight lines in Nature, no perfect circles, no perfect organisms or specimens of anything; the whole idea of "perfection" is a human concept, and is to be found nowhere in Nature; whence, therefore, did it come, if not from Nature?

It is an absolute libel on childhood to say that children resist being taught; children love to be taught, and when they resist it is because something has already gone wrong with the child or with the system of teaching.

It always irks me when I am forced to complain about some merchandise and the clerk replies smugly, "We've never had a complaint on this before," which may only mean that most customers are too timid, too lazy, too busy, or too disgusted to pursue fruitless matter.

Lakes Planners Receive Grants

$541,500 Funds to Finance Study for Spurring Economy

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Two grants totalling $541,500 have been made available to the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission to assist Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan in planning programs to spur economic growth in their northern counties, according to Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

The Upper Great Lakes Commission is being established under the Public Works and Economic Development Act passed by the last Congress. Nelson introduced the first legislation to set up such a commission to aid underdeveloped regions. Nelson is chairman of the Senate Committee on Great Lakes Problems, a subcommittee of the Great Lakes Conference of Great Lakes Senators, which is chaired by Sen. William Proxmire.

Encourage Tourism Nelson said, "The Upper Great Lakes Commission should become especially active in supporting plans to encourage tourism, recreational and light industrial development. "The north is attractive to many people who want to escape the overcrowding of the cities. But we must provide economic opportunity in order to attract and keep them."

"Orderly development coupled with quick action can preserve and develop this land for the benefit of our people," Sen. Nelson pointed out. "But the commission must move ahead forthrightly."

The grants will be accepted at a formal organization meeting in Madison Tuesday. The commission is made up of the three governors and a federal co-chairman, Thomas S. Francis.

Woman Arrested in War Protest Becomes Lobbyist for Peace

She said she will represent the Committee for Direct Action and would lobby for peace.

Byrnes' visit to Outagamie County is the first in his recently announced program of spring office hours in his district. It is designed particularly for those who would like to talk over their federal problems personally with their representative.

Residents of Outagamie County with problems involving either federal legislation or contact with a federal agency are invited to see him on this visit to Appleton. He will be at the courthouse from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Friday. Constituents will be seen in the order in which they arrive. Byrnes said he also would be glad to see constituents from 9 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday in his Green Bay office, 207 Federal Building, when district-wide office hours are scheduled.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Thursday, April 6, the 96th day of 1967. There are 269 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1917, the House of Representatives approved a Senate-passed resolution declaring war on Germany. President Woodrow Wilson then signed the declaration at the White House.

On this date: In 1830, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, better known as the Mormon Church, was organized at Fayette, N.Y. In 1893, the longest bout in sports history was fought in New Orleans by Andy Bowen and Jack Burke. Referee Jack Duffy stopped the fight in the 110th round and declared it no contest.

In 1909, Robert Peary, with Matt Henson and four Eskimos, reached the North Pole and planted the American flag at the spot sought by explorers for almost a century. In 1941, Nazi armies started their invasion of Greece and Yugoslavia.

In 1942, Japanese troops landed on the island of Bougainville. Ten years ago — Electric trolley car service in New York became a thing of the past as buses took over the service which had been started more than 69 years earlier.

Five years ago — Three workers digging the tunnel through Mount Blanc on the French-Italian border were killed in an avalanche.

Probably not, according to a survey made by Prof. Peter H. Rossi of the University of Chicago. In 1947 bankers ranked high, in tenth place in a group of 90 professions. But by 1963 his position had dropped to 24th. This reflects the growing influence of government in our country, and perhaps a suspicion that bankers have not always served the interests of the public. In any case, the days of J. P. Morgan, when bankers stood high in the eyes of the public and wielded great influence, seem to have gone.

Humphrey in W. Berlin Amid Violence Threat

Father Pays Ransom for Son

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 empty bed Monday morning and Young a note she found warning him not to call the police and describing how to turn over $250,000 for the boy's return.

Called Police "As soon as we read that note, my wife and I agreed that the thing to do was to call the police immediately," Young recalled. The family and authorities maintained the secret while scores of policemen and FBI agents went to work.

"I had half a dozen phone calls Monday but the party at the other end never spoke to me," he said. "Last night I did as the letter said and drove to the phone booth. The call came at 6 p.m. and the man said, 'are you Herbert?'"

"He spoke in a slow, soft voice. He sounded very intelligent. I then drove to the gas station and waited beside my car. About 45 minutes later a white Chevrolet Impala slowed down right in front of the station. The individual motioned me to follow him."

Asked for Bag Young followed the man's car to a clear gravel area. The man asked for the bag.

"He had his left hand free but his right hand was in his jacket. I didn't know if he was armed. I gave him the bag. Then I came back home."

"The next call was about 4 a.m. Kenny was on the phone and said he had been drugged with three sleeping pills and was in a man's apartment in Santa Monica. Then a man came to the phone and said, 'I have your son here, he's fine, but he's tired.'"

Young did not disclose how many abductors his son described. He said Kenneth would return on Monday to his fifth grade classes at Beverly Hills elementary school.

'He Is Fine' "They shaved his head so they could put tape over his eyes, but otherwise he is fine," Young said.

Young, who heads an organization with assets of $423.5 million, was sleeping with his wife Arline when Kenneth disappeared. A maid and their other children — a 3-year-old girl and boys 13 and 6 — were sleeping in bedrooms farther away from the second floor door than Kenneth's.

The Youngs are active in civic affairs and philanthropy. In 1961, his company gave money to establish a foreign student travel fund. A student from Nigeria lives in a house at the rear of the Youngs' nearly estate-size property and the Youngs have entertained foreign students.

West Berlin security units ringed the airport and a squad of white-helmeted motorcycle police was drawn up smartly to escort the Vice President on the brief motor trip to the center of the city. West Berlin Mayor Heinrich Albertz and other German and U. S. officials greeted Humphrey.

Humphrey said that he and his wife were "extremely grateful for the opportunity to once again visit this great city. The President of the United States, Mr. Johnson, has asked me to convey to the people of Berlin his very best wishes — and the continued friendship of the people of the United States."

"Berlin is the symbol of a dauntless spirit not only of its people but of people everywhere," Humphrey added. "I have come here to see its vitality, its progress."

Ride Into City After the airport ceremonies, held under a misty sky with the sun occasionally peeping through, the Vice President and Mrs. Humphrey got into separate cars for the brief ride into the city.

A white-helmeted motorcycle escort roared alongside as the cars rolled to the city's center. Police units were stationed along the route in a reminder of the strict security measures.

Humphrey's schedule included a speech in the City Assembly, a meeting with Mayor Heinrich Albertz, a visit to the American community area, a short tour of the city, a castle reception and an evening reception by the U. S. German Chamber of Commerce.

Youths Attack Son of Actor Peter Lawford

NEW YORK (AP) — Three boys attacked Christopher Lawford, 12, son of actor Peter Lawford and nephew of the late President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy, Wednesday as he walked to school in Manhattan's Upper East Side.

The youths who set on young Lawford and three school friends were picked up by police later. The attackers go to a school for difficult boys in the neighborhood.

Christopher and his three friends, who attend St. David's School near Mrs. Kennedy's Fifth Avenue residence, were walking at Madison Avenue and 88th Street when they were accosted.

One boy grabbed Christopher and demanded his watch, but the youngster said he didn't have one and broke free. He ran with one of his friends to a store where he told what had happened. The boys were not injured.

UW Paper Celebrates 75th Birthday Without Senate Congratulations

MADISON (AP) — The state Senate staunchly refused Wednesday to wish the University of Wisconsin's student newspaper, The Daily Cardinal, happy birthday on the publication's 75th anniversary.

The vote against commending the publication was 21-10. Only weeks ago lawmakers demanded an explanation from University President Fred Harvey Harrington after the paper used an obscenity in a front page story.

Lake Front Freeway Resoundingly Okayed By Milwaukee Voters

The count on the curiously worded question, in which a "no" vote meant support for the freeway project, was 63,147 to 33,073, with 310 of 337 precincts reporting.

Opponents had gathered more than 48,000 votes on a petition asking that the city preserve lakefront lands presently designated or reserved as park areas.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 three times as heavy as the crowds on the other side, with strollers either stopping for autographs and snapshots or peering over sun glasses for quick glimpses.

Police usually assigned to keep pickets walking are absent, and the star-pickets stop often to affix their names to scraps of paper. One agent has even sent out press notices on when his client would picket.

Once fan planted himself in front of Hugh Downs, host of NBC's "Today" show, and asked, "Are you anybody famous?"

"No," Downs replied. Outside NBC, tourists buses pause where they've never paused before.

One little old lady, who said she had come to New York by train just to see the TV stars, took one look at the NBC picket line and cried, "Why, I don't know one of them!"

Wednesday, the pickets were counter-picketed by Lillian Miller, 69, who has become a sort of personality in her own right, frequently attending TV broadcasts.

"Unfair to Devoted Studio Audiences," Mrs. Miller's sign read.

News Instructions At NBC, a notice was pinned on the news desk for supervisory personnel filling in for striking broadcasters.

It read: "Brass talent. All copy must be at the copy desk 20 minutes before air time — per instructions of you executives."

One of those executives, George Heinemann, usually a producer, launched his new, if temporary, career as an on-camera weatherman by stating: "The temperature tomorrow will be in the fifties and fiftytwos."

The following night, he apologized for the flub. "I was kidded about it all day," he told his audience.

"Anyway, the temperature tomorrow will be in the sixties to sixty-fives. Winds will be mostly westerly."

He also apologized for his first-night nervousness. It was, he said, to the fact that his socks were falling down.

Woes Compounded The woes of NBC and ABC were compounded today as walkouts of engineers and other technicians in sympathy with AFTRA performers took hold in several areas of network radio and television. "We'll have them rerunning reruns soon," a union leader said after the Conaway.

U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Richard G. Cicciolla, the senior U.N. member of the armistice commission, sent a message to the chief North Korean delegate protesting the "serious violation of the armistice agreement."

Moved Body The U.N. command said the North Koreans during the night moved one of the three bodies to a Communist position north of the demarcation line.

There have been a series of fatal incidents along the demarcation line in the last five months, beginning with a North Korean attack last November while President Johnson was visiting Seoul in which six Americans and a South Korean were killed.

In January, North Korean shore batteries sank a South Korean navy ship off the east coast, killing 40 South Koreans. A U.S. patrol was attacked on Feb. 12 and one American soldier was killed.

Snow Removal Expert Gets Job in Florida

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lansing Harold Rathfool of Lansing retired as chief maintenance engineer of the Michigan highway department, he planned to move to his retirement home at Port Lauderdale, Fla. Before he moved he received a telegram from Rolf Mickler, assistant Florida highway engineer, announcing Rathfool's appointment as chief consultant on snow removal in Florida.

Mickler said, "the work will not be heavy. You will not even be asked to submit an expense account."

engineers stayed away from work today at the two networks, in New York.

The engineers were among 15 theatrical unions, including cameramen, technicians, stagehands, set designers, musicians and electricians, who voted Wednesday to support the move "will obviously hurt technicians in sympathy with us," a network spokesman said.

"If this doesn't shut down the several areas of network radio and television," said AFTRA's executive secretary, Donald F. union leader said after the Conaway.

Hayden, a captain in the Arizona National Guard, was made a major and was commanding an infantry battalion at Ft. Lewis, Wash., when discharged.

Chronologically, the steps in the declaration of war were these: April 2—Wilson, addressing a night joint Senate-House session, asked for the declaration. It was then that he said "the world must be made safe for democracy," the line most remembered from that address.

Last of Neutrality More prophetically, he also said: "Neutrality is no longer feasible or desirable where the peace of the world is involved and the freedom of its people. We have seen the last of neutrality in such circumstances."

April 3—Sen. Robert M. La Follette, R-Wis., by the technicality of invoking Senate rules and refusing unanimous consent, temporarily blocked Senate consideration of the resolution for 13 hours and at 11 p.m. passed it 82 to 6.

April 5—The House began consideration of the resolution. April 6—After 18 hours of debate, the House passed it. News-papers of the day variously report the time as 3:12 a.m. and 3:15 a.m. At 1:18 p.m., Wilson signed it.

One account is that Wilson's action was signaled by semaphore from a White House window to the Navy Department, then relayed to ships at sea.

Dozens Arrested Among the first U. S. actions were seizures of 91 German ships interned in American ports and the arrest of dozens of suspected German spies.

The United States sent two million men "Over There" and one was a 21-year-old from Pekin, Ill., named Everett McKinley Dirksen, now the Senate Republican leader.

As in every war, there were boys who fudged about their age to get into service. In 1917, a tough kid named Mike Mansfield managed to get into the Navy at 14. He later did time with the Marines and the Army.

Now a senator from Montana, Mansfield is leader of the Senate Democrats.

There are numerous other World War I veterans in Congress, but the majority of the present Congress is too young to have known that war.

Reds Stage Big Jailbreak

Returning pilots reported the Communist ground fire was so heavy it lit up the low-hanging clouds and the speedy jets as they made their bomb runs.

The new raids on the Hanoi-Haiphong area paralleled intensified ground fighting in the South, and the weekly casualty report showed 194 Americans were killed last week, 1,679 were wounded, and allied forces killed 2,373 Communist troops.

Mortar Attacks Many of the American casualties resulted from intensified Red mortar attacks, and the Red gunners scored again today with a barrage in the Tay Ninh jungles that wounded 38 U.S. infantrymen.

The U.S. Command also announced that American troop strength in South Vietnam rose by 10,000 men last week to 435,000. It was the largest increase in many months, but a spokesman said it resulted from the arrival of numerous small units, mostly logistic support units and some aviation companies.

The U.S. estimate of enemy strength remained at 287,000 despite the 2,373 reported killed last week and 630 Viet Cong soldiers who the U.S. command announced Wednesday had defected to the South Vietnamese side last week.

The power plant raided was the thermal station at Bac Giang, rated the newest power station in North Vietnam. It was the seventh time it has been hit since it was cleared for bombing by Washington on Feb. 24.

Pilots of the all-weather Intruders said they "walked" their 500-pound bombs over the station and reported target coverage excellent despite what one pilot called "a hailstorm of enemy flak."

The pilots said the anti-aircraft defenses picked the incoming planes up early in their bomb runs and held them under radar-controlled fire throughout.

Milwaukee Ousts Only Negro on School Board

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Dr. Cornelius Golightly, first and only Negro ever elected to Milwaukee's school board, was defeated Tuesday in a bid for reelection, after a campaign with acrimonious racial overtones.

The city has had several demonstrations and continual controversy in recent years over whether the traditional neighborhood school pattern, which civil rights groups contend leads to what they term de facto segregation, should be maintained. There also has been dispute over whether pupils from the core area should be taken by bus to all-white schools in an effort to reach racial balance.

Golightly, who is director of the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee summer sessions, has supported both moves, but has been regarded generally as a racial moderate.

Voters generally supported candidates favoring the neighborhood school pattern, returning four incumbents and naming three new members.

Mix Voting Lists

BOSTON (AP) — Massachusetts is ending segregated voting lists. Under a law enacted recently, male and female voting lists must be consolidated.

Post Office Fines Nine Railroads For Mail Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department has fined nine railroads $127,500 since Jan. 1, charging them with delaying the mails, it was learned Wednesday.

The fines range from $2,500 against the Chicago & Eastern Illinois to $35,000 against the New York Central. The latest fine was $20,000 against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy.

A Post Office official said the fines were imposed after the department decided to "take a closer look at train schedules" in an effort to find out whether late arriving passenger trains were slowing mail deliveries.

Other fines levied since January are: Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific, $10,000; Louisville & Nashville, $5,000; Missouri Pacific, $15,000; Norfolk & Western, $10,000; St. Louis-San Francisco, $5,000; and Southern Pacific, $25,000.

The department has the power to impose fines against railroads when mail carrying trains do not meet their posted schedules. The department considers a train late when it is 15 or more minutes tardy.

UW: 'Berkeley of the Midwest'

BY DICK LYNEIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Frequent references are made to the University of Wisconsin as being "the Berkeley of the Midwest."

Actually, it could be turned around just as easily. The University of California might be referred to as "the Madison of the Far West."

The university, in Madison, in its one century of existence, has deservedly earned the reputation as being one of the nation's leading academic centers.

Now, the UW has an added reputation. It has become a national hotbed of student activism and radicalism.

Unofficial "headquarters" for student radicalism at the UW is an old, dilapidated white frame apartment building at 8 Francis Court. Two of the building's tenants are Hank Haslach, 25, a doctoral candidate in mathematics and president of the university's chapter of Students for a Democratic Society, and Marty Tandler, 22, a senior majoring in history who is the Wisconsin-Minnesota field secretary for the SDS national office in Chicago.

Discussing their brand of radicalism, Haslach has this to say:

Communists "Conservative"

"SNCC (Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee) and SDS are the most radical groups in the country. The Democratic Party and Communist Party are conservative compared to us."

If Haslach considers SNCC and SDS the "most radical" groups in the country, he is placing his brand of radicalism over some other notorious groups on the UW campus and its fringes.

Madison is the headquarters of the National Coordinating Committee to End the War in Vietnam (NCC), one of the most radical organizations.

Another organization, United Campus Action (UCA), was born out of a "sympathy demonstration" in December for striking students at the Berkeley campus of the University of California. The demonstration resulted in a series of demands on the university administration. The grievance list contained items which are now accepted as "standard" when protest movements begin at other big universities. Among them are demands for an end to military recruiting, a binding referendum on university draft policy, elimination of "secret" defense research contracts, and accommodation of "student power."

Flourishing Groups

Other flourishing groups on the Madison campus are the Communist DuBois Club (a group on the Attorney General's "List" of subversive organizations), the Communist Party itself, the Trotskyite Young Socialist Alliance, and the pro-Peking Progressive Labor Party.

Yet, Haslach claims that, along with SNCC, SDS is the "most radical."

Tandler, who was UW chapter SDS president one year ago discussed the other radical groups on the campus.

"Progressive Labor people, the YSA and the DuBois Club," he said, "rely heavily on a tight organization with orders coming from the top down. In these groups, a ruling elite sets policy."

"the policy is developed from the bottom up. The national office can only give its interpretation of SDS policy. If a person believes discipline is necessarily politically, he wouldn't be able to exist in SDS."

He was asked if SDS policies are communistic in theory.

"Many of the ideological underpinnings of SDS," he answered, "come from various sources such as Marxism, Marxist - Leninism and anarchism — all these tools of analysis are used."

Revisionist Marxist

"The Communist Party of the U.S.A.," Tandler said, "is revisionist Marxist. I'd be reluctant to type SDS as revisionist Marxist."

Going into SDS goals at the university, he said SDS "wants students to take over the university, or to have some say in the administration."

Sitting on the floor of Tandler's room (since it contains only a beat-up old couch, a "hi-fi," bookcases and a mattress on the floor), Haslach said, "our main goal is that everyone should have a right to make decisions which affect their lives. The way to create such a society is by living it. So we're starting out by living the way we want to end up."

"We're the anarchist element of the Socialist Party," Haslach stated. "Much of what we believe is a result of the McCarthy era. I took a lot of those values seriously, but I found out that most of them were lies."

"Take democracy," he said, "it doesn't exist in this country; an elite runs the country. What I think about the war in Vietnam means nothing to LBJ, what I think about the draft means nothing to my senators."

Worthless Values

"Many SDS people come from wealthy and middle-class families. They discovered that the values of this class are empty and worthless. So they have turned to SDS where there is a human or, if you want to call it that, a loving society."

Discussing potential areas of recruitment, Haslach said it would be easier to convert a "YF'er (Young Americans for Freedom) to the SDS than it would be to convert a liberal Democrat."

He explained that both the far left and the far right "are dissatisfied with the way things are."

"Both the Birchers and us," he said, "realize we're not getting what we want. They (the Birchers) and other strong conservatives, know there's something wrong with the value system. The strong federal government doesn't respond to their wishes. If you can make them see the contradictions, they can see there is something wrong with the value system and can easily be won over to our cause."

Discussing the "new society" which the revolution will bring about, Tandler and Haslach, like national SDS headquarters spokesmen, say they have no idea what form it will take.

New Political Forms

"We expect to go ahead and develop new political forms," Haslach explains. "The important thing about all of this is that people look upon the government to establish stability. But if people want to grow and to feel stable, society has to change. All the new institutions will develop when we see how society develops."

But as to how society will develop, SDS spokesmen all say they have "no idea."

"The form of political philosophy isn't important," Tandler said, "but the content is."

The main roadblock to progress by radical students at the University of Wisconsin is administration, but not for the same reasons as at other higher education institutions. Wisconsin's administration is notably liberal. Eric C. Ludvigsen, discussing UW officials in a recent issue of the Detroit News, said they are "difficult to provoke and adept at avoiding actions which constitute red flags for student militants."

Still, the school's administration represents the same basic society which SDS means to change.

Kaukauna Okays $350,000 Bonding

Water Department Proposes Major Expansion Program

KAUKAUNA — The city council authorized the Electric and Water Utility Commission Wednesday night to float approximately $350,000 mortgage revenue bonds on the water utility.

Money from the bond issue will be used to reimburse the electric utility for funds borrowed to make major improvements in the water utility.

Public Service Commission (PSC) approval had been received for the water utility to borrow money from the electric utility to finance an additional well, iron removing equipment, major plant modernization and construction of a second elevated storage tank.

The electric utility also is contemplating a major improvement program. It was felt it would be better business to have the water department repay the electrical utility and bond for its improvements, making it possible for the electrical utility to borrow for its own needs if necessary.

An ordinance was adopted eliminating a portion of Thilmany Road and Stribley Road from the city truck route as recommended by the board of public works and the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. The city engineer was instructed to contact Outagamie County Highway Commission in an effort to determine when the county could start seal coating city streets under the 1967 agreement.

Bloy Construction, Appleton, was awarded the bid for installation of approximately 27,000 square feet of sidewalk and 2,650 square feet of driveway pavement at a bid price of $12,403. Six bids were received, second low amounting to $13,832. The engineer was instructed to secure cost estimates for installation of sewer pipe in White City Park and report to the board of public works.

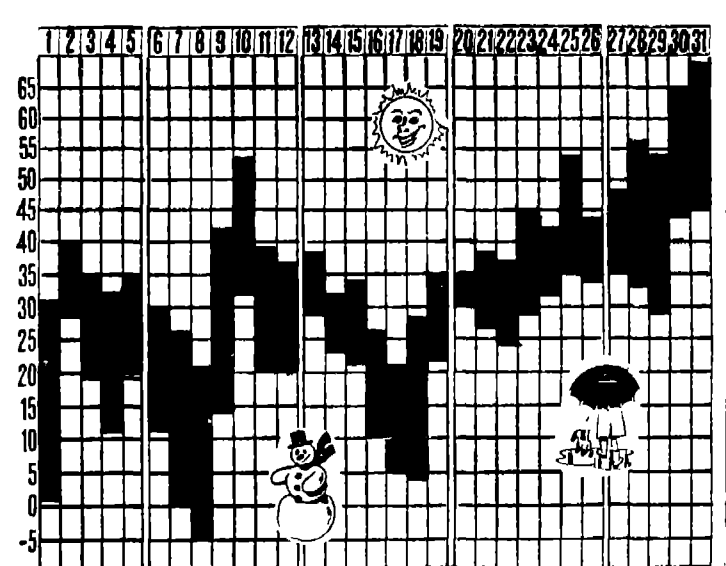

Aldermen instructed the engineer to request Outagamie County to install sidewalk on the south side of County Trunk from Margaret Street to Gertrude Street to aid pedestrian traffic in the area. The board of public works was authorized to undertake a study of blacktopping the area near Aldermen rescinded previous action which called for revolving red warning lights on both police vehicles and authorized one unmarked car as recommended by the chief of police. Aldermen agreed to continue study on a 2-hour parking request petition signed by almost 900 citizens. The request was to increase parking by one hour in the business area.

The city clerk was authorized to contact the board of education to determine whether high school dismissal hours could be changed to promote safety in the area. Woodville, Harrison Eye Service Swap

Offer Free Fire Protection for Use Of Rubbish Dump

SHERWOOD — Salary increases of $500 a year for Town of Harrison's clerk, treasurer and assessor, were approved Tuesday at the annual meeting along with a $5 per meeting increase, bringing the per diem rate to $12.

The hike brings the clerk's one at Sherwood and the other salary to $1,750 a year and the treasurer and assessor a wage of $1,450. Clerk and treasurer receive an additional $12 per meeting. Chairman and supervisors will receive the $12 meeting rate instead of the previous $7.

Voters agree to a swap of rubbish dumping facilities for fire protection with the neighboring Town of Woodville.

Decides Friday
The Woodville town board is expected to decide Friday on the proposal which would permit Harrison residents to use the Woodville dump near St. John. In return, Harrison would drop the $300 a year fee it would extract from Woodville for fire protection. Harrison, which has two fire companies, has provided fire protection for Woodville for many years.

Notice to stop dumping rubbish by April 1 at the Lehrers dump, route 3, Kaukauna, recently was received by Harrison.

Approve Purchase
The purchase of a tailgate sander attachment costing about $1,200 was approved as was a $25 increase to the Darby and Sherwood Legion Posts, bringing the total to $50 each, for Memorial Day expenses. The request was made by the Darby Legion.

Roadbinder will be applied to all gravel roads in the town. The annual audit was approved. No changes in the time of the annual meeting, which last year was postponed to a later date.

End Testimony In Lubeck Homicide Trial

Witness Says Pontiac
Involved in Hit-Run
Before Fatal Crash

A Pontiac driven by Thomas J. Lubeck, 24, Janesville, was involved in a minor hit and run accident just a mile from where the same car minutes later crashed head-on into another auto, killing two Manitowoc people Sept. 5, a 12-member Outagamie County Court jury heard Wednesday afternoon.

Testimony ended just before noon today in the trial of Lubeck, who is charged with negligent homicide in connection with the Labor Day traffic deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Krebsbach. They were killed in the fiery, three-car accident on U. S. 10, a mile west of Appleton. Final arguments were scheduled to be heard this afternoon, and jury deliberations will begin then.

Twelve witnesses were placed on the stand Wednesday by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. Defense witnesses this morning included Lubeck, who, at a coroner's inquest last October, said he could recall nothing of events surrounding the accident.

Dr. Earl B. Kitzrow, Appleton, also called by Lubeck's attorney, Stanley Chmiel, said he attended Lubeck at Appleton Memorial Hospital Sept. 5. He said Lubeck was "severely injured," suffered a deep head laceration, was "confused," and "did not seem to know his name." Dr. Kitzrow, who said a neurosurgeon had been called, testified that, considering the injuries, Lubeck could have suffered a loss of memory about the accident.

Grace Wilhelm, 19, 123 W. College Ave., testified for the defense today that she saw a car driven by Mrs. Esther Hinz of Neenah pull onto U. S. 10 from the Outagamie County Hospital road when it was side-swiped by the Lubeck car. She said it did not appear the Hinz car had completely turned into its own lane when it was hit.

Appleton to Buy 48 Acres For Park, School, Highway

Council Approves $140,000
For Municipal Development

Laying the groundwork for a major municipal development which will add appreciably to Appleton's tax base, the city council okayed purchase of 48 acres of land of the far south side Wednesday night.

The property, which will cost $140,000, will be purchased from H. and J. Roeland for park, school and Tri-County Expressway right-of-way purposes.

It is located east of Highway 10 and south of Roeland Avenue. The council acted after receiving strong recommendations to do so from the board of public works and the city plan commission, the latter calling a special meeting earlier in the week to act on the matter.

Negotiations
Mayor George Buckley and City Atty. David Geenen, along with other members of the land acquisition committee, have been in negotiations with the property owners.

The land is to be purchased on a land contract over a 15-year period, with 10 per cent down when the contract is delivered. The unpaid balance will bear a 4 per cent interest rate.

The mayor and city clerk were authorized by the council to sign the purchase contract on behalf of the city.

$3,000 an Acre
Cost of the land is slightly below $3,000 per acre. City officials said they felt the price was reasonable, adding that the acquisition would "well suit city purposes."

The council also:
—Referred to the plan commission a proposed public sites and open spaces ordinance which would put the burden on subdivision developers to donate land or money for park and school site purposes.

—Gave approval to final change-order plans affecting the Soldiers Square Parking Ramp. Because a cashier-type parking system is to be installed, it is necessary to knock out part of the expressway exit ramp wall.

—Authorized the city clerk to advertise for traffic light equipment at the Franklin - Oneida and Franklin - Appleton streets intersections.

Spree at Home Costs
Appleton Man $50
Howard Dickson, 39, 2300 N. Division St., whom Appleton police said came home intoxicated Tuesday night, beat up his wife, and broke several windows, was fined $50 and costs or 24 days in jail after he pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct Wednesday.

Dickson, arrested by Appleton police, appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Agenda of City Fathers

A touch of beauty was added to the agenda of the Appleton City Council Wednesday night.

Mental Health Plans Seminar

For April Workshop

The Outagamie County Mental Health Association has issued invitations to all public and parochial elementary schools in the county for an April 22 teachers' seminar on "classroom practices that build mental health."

Substitute, as well as regular elementary school teachers, are invited to the workshop from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Lawrence University.

Speakers will include T. J. Kuemmerlein, executive director of personnel of the Milwaukee Public School System, who will give the opening address at 9:30 a.m. in Youngchild Hall of Science. His talk on mental health in schools will precede a question period and group discussions.

After a luncheon in Colman Hall, participants will hear Albert E. Neal, Lawrence University psychology department, speak on practices that can be detrimental to mental health. A question period will conclude the program.

The seminar has been planned by the education committee of the mental health association under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Mielke. Committee members include Mrs. Gordon McIntyre, the Rev. Donald Severson, Mrs. Robert Stillings, Mrs. Kenneth Venderbush and Mrs. Carl Wellman. President of the association is Kenneth Venderbush. Registrations are due by April 17.

attended a council meeting before but was enjoying it.

She told of her many activities since being selected this city's entry in the annual "Miss Wisconsin" pageant, commenting, "It's just great to meet new and old friends, too."

Mayor George Buckley thanked her for visiting the council and wished her well on behalf of the city's governing body.

Fight Incorporation

Appleton has no intention of sitting idly on the sidelines in the event surrounding towns decide to file for village or city status.

Suspending the rules, the Appleton Council gave priority Wednesday night to a motion by Ald. Roy Pointer (14th), council president, that the city attorney's office be the watchdog to "protect the city's interests."

Pointer and several other aldermen, along with Mayor George Buckley, have been advocates of a major, planned annexation program by the city.

Some of the eight boys also were involved in the theft of money, and about 12 packages of cigarettes from a laundromat in Black Creek Feb. 12 and 22.

Investigators also said that some of the youths admitted stealing a red light March 15 from inside a car owned by Black Creek Constable Wilbert Zocholl. The boys have been referred to juvenile authorities.

Firm Seeks Goodland Field For Future Plant Expansion

Waived Requirements

Plan Crash Program For Utility Installation In New Industrial Park

Anticipating an industrial expansion on Appleton's far east side the city council approved a "crash" utility program Wednesday night.

At the same time, the council waived a requirement that streets and utilities must be at a site before any construction can begin.

Riverside Paper Corp., which will continue to operate at its present location in the "industrial flats," intends to disclose a major new plant expansion program in a matter of days, the council was informed.

Officials Confer
City officials took action following conferences with representatives of the firm, and on the recommendation of the board of public works and street-sanitation committee.

It will enable the city to start laying sewers and other underground facilities on Kensington Drive to Newberry Street and Peters Street extended.

The private industrial park in which Riverside intends to have the first big development is in a tract west of Spiel School Road.

To get the municipal facilities to the proposed plant site, the city had to obtain easements from property owners in the area.

Details Planned
It was disclosed the department of public works and city engineering division have been in contact for some time with representatives of the paper company, working out various details.

In other action, the council:
—Voted to advertise for bids for concrete repairs and pointing on the four digesters at the sewage treatment plant.

—Approved purchase of an asphalt mixer for use by the city street department.

Approved Barriades
—Okayed the barricading of sidewalks surrounding the old No. 1 fire station which is being razed by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., which purchased the property from the city.

—Granted requests of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. to install underground conduits in College Avenue from Superior Street to Memorial Drive.

—Approved a request of the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. to construct gas mains on 18 city streets, one project calling for laying of 6,780 feet along S. Pierce Avenue, N. Bennett and W. Commercial streets.

Cost Estimate Of Planning for UW-GB Hiked

Subcommittee on University Affairs
Delays Authorization

MADISON — The university affairs subcommittee of the state Building Commission has delayed until this afternoon consideration of increased authorization for further planning of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and a sister school in Kenosha County.

The authorization, needed by April 15 to advance planning at the needed pace to open the schools to students in September, 1969, will be considered by the sub-unit headed by Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, in a special meeting Thursday noon.

The delay came after a one hour meeting in Leonard's office in which he received reports from the state Bureau of Engineering raising the total cost of the Building Commission's approved campus planning concept almost $1 million to $13,029,000.

"Surge Space"
The concept envisions the start of third and fourth year operations in 1969 on the two campuses, a laboratory-classroom building, and temporary "surge" space at each school at the start.

The cost estimated by the bureau to the subcommittee a month ago totaled $12,499,000 for the two campuses.

The cost change was due to correcting an accounting procedure error in the Green Bay campus estimates, totaling about $200,000, plan changes due to power line problems on that site, totaling about $100,000, and the remainder in cost changes shifted between buildings on the two campuses.

The latter changes were due to more sophisticated planning constantly being evolved as the campuses move nearer construction.

The authorization which is needed would allow the bureau and the university, in conjunction with the special consultants hired for the two projects, to move ahead with additional advance planning and the start of actual working drawings for the first buildings.

The subcommittee also was told that a UW plan calling for the construction of a library-learning center on each campus, as well as the creation of all the other approved buildings, would hike the cost of the total two campus project to $24,836,000 million.

Directed the mayor to appoint a study committee to determine if a housing authority should be formed to embark on a program of low rental public housing for the elderly.

Took steps to better control traffic at the Richmond-Memorial College Avenue intersection after Ald. Al Stoenbauer (4th) said the situation represented "a serious emergency."

Approved a community antenna television (CATV) ordinance recommended jointly by the public safety and street-sanitation committees after several months of study.

Miller Electric Manufacturing Makes Proposal; City Assures Foxes of New Baseball Complex

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Reacting swiftly to an overture from Miller Electric Manufacturing Co. to purchase Goodland Field for future industrial expansion, the Appleton city council Wednesday night gave the go-ahead to negotiations.

At the same time, the council indicated it would put planning machinery in motion to give priority to construction of a new multi-sports center to fill the void should Goodland Field be sold.

The council gave officials of the Fox Cities Baseball Club every assurance they would have a facility to continue professional baseball in the region.

They gave the commercial and industrial development committee, headed by Ald. John MacDonald (7th), authority to proceed with negotiations and have a completed report within 60 days.

Entered Picture
The Miller firm entered the picture in the last few days as the city and baseball club officials deliberated whether a new $40,000 building should be constructed to house locker and shower facilities at Goodland Field.

In a letter to the council, Mrs. Niels Miller, president of the firm which employs an estimated 700 persons and has worldwide markets, commented:

"We have always appreciated the existence of professional baseball in Appleton and as long as Goodland Field was the home field of a pro team, we did not deem it proper to officially express our long standing interest in the property."

Mrs. Miller said, however, that on occasions during the past several years the firm had unofficially indicated the site (field), adjacent to the Miller plant, represented a desirable expansion site to continue its pattern of growth.

Imminent Decision
"We have nearly exhausted every square foot of land available to us and, although we have no immediate building plans, it seems likely that during the next five to 10 years we will be faced with a decision whether to curtail our growth, or reconsider our decision not to relocate outside the city limits," Mrs. Miller wrote.

"When it became apparent, in order to create a healthy atmosphere for baseball, that various improvements to the park were needed or that a new site should be established," Mrs. Miller added, "our board of directors voted unanimously to express our official interest in acquiring the Goodland Field site for industrial purposes."

Mrs. Miller said her letter was to officially inform the city council of the action taken by the board.

Immediate Utilization
And it was further explained by Mrs. Miller that while the firm's interest is long-range, it could utilize the site immediately for parking purposes and some warehousing facilities.

She said this, however, would not preclude any reasonable occupancy delay necessary to establish a new ball park on a suitable site. Thus, Miller Electric in effect gave the city leeway, and also indicated its wish to cooperate with the baseball club.

"I trust that our interest and willingness to enter into serious negotiations will receive careful consideration by the various official bodies of the City of Appleton and that we may expect some definite response in the future," Mrs. Miller concluded.

Robert Rahn, president of the baseball club, said the latest

Housewife, 3 Men Lead Cattle Through Flames

Passersby First Notice Smoke Pouring From Building on Farm Northwest of Hortonville

HORTONVILLE — A young housewife and three unidentified men led 10 head of cattle from a barn that was engulfed in flames late Wednesday afternoon on the William Schieder-mayer farm, 2 1/2 miles northwest of here on U. S. 45.

Mrs. Schieder-mayer said she was working in the house when three men came to the door and told her smoke was coming from the barn, which was about 100 feet south of the house. She and the three men raced to the barn and began leading out the cows.

Mrs. Schieder-mayer said that when they first spotted the fire, it appeared to be restricted, but by the time they began getting the cows out, it had spread throughout much of the interior of the 32 by 56 foot frame structure. Mrs. Schieder-mayer said that fortunately, none of the cows balked at leaving the burning building.

Hay Lost
Some 300 to 400 bales of hay were lost in the blaze, Schieder-mayer said. He was working at Ace Floor Covering Co. in Appleton when the fire broke out about 3:40 p.m.

Hortonville firemen, who were summoned by Mrs. Schieder-mayer, said the fire spread so fast that the roof had collapsed by the time they arrived. Fire Chief Lawrence Moder said the flames were whipped by strong winds which carried sparks east across U.S. 45, and started small fires on the other side of the road. Firemen feared for a time that the sparks would touch off a fire in a barn across the road.

Threatened Building
Also threatened for a time was a large garage-type structure near Schieder-mayer's barn. A small chicken coop beside the barn was leveled. There were no chickens in the building, Schieder-mayer said.

About 25 firemen from Hortonville and the Town of Hortonville were at the scene with two trucks for about three hours. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined, nor was an estimate of the loss, which Schieder-mayer said is at least partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Schieder-mayer said she did not have time to get the names of the men who helped her, but assumes they must have been driving by on 45 and saw the smoke. They reportedly left shortly after firemen arrived.

Steinhilber Wants Delay for UW-GB

Oshkosh Assemblyman Doubts
Enrollment Projections

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A move being developed by freshmen Republican Assemblymen would delay construction of the Universities of Wisconsin-Green Bay and Parkside at least two years, it was learned Wednesday.

The plan, which has not been translated into bill form, was discussed briefly in a Republican Assembly caucus Tuesday afternoon and among new members of the lower house Wednesday.

Author of the plan is Jack Steinhilber of Oshkosh, who would not identify other participants in the planning. Reportedly also involved are Assemblymen Tommy Thompson of Elroy and Sam Held of Milwaukee.

The plan, as yet, has little backing in the lower house, but Assembly majority leader David Martin of Neenah has been consulted on the moves. He has declined to participate in the project, however.

Backers of the plan cite as their main reasons for the move claims that enrollment projections do not justify the creation of new schools during those years, continuing controversies over site problems, and the lawsuit over the Green Bay campus project.

They also contend that disputes over the development of the campuses as third and fourth year institutions or as full four-year universities make necessary a re-examination of the projects.

Unofficial reasons cited by at least one participant include opposition to the UW administration headed by President Fred Harvey Harrington.

"Some of the fellows don't want to give it to the UW because of Harrington and his administration," one source said frankly. Student unrest and demonstrations on the Madison campus have stirred legislative reactions to the UW leadership.

Martin cited as one reason for not joining in the movement the questioning as to enrollment statistics. Backers of the move have suggested that Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh might be able to accommodate the enrollment expected at the Green Bay school.

Disputed Plans
Martin, who has argued over plans to develop the school as a four-year university with educational leaders, backed the idea of creating the northeastern Wisconsin branch campus to backers of the move which could lead to reconsideration of the planning.

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, a leading opponent of the Green Bay site, said that while he had heard rumors of the moves, he was not involved. Froehlich missed the caucus due to illness.

Senate majority leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, whose co-operation would be needed in the moves, said when asked that he also had heard the rumors but that no official contacts had been made.

Leonard heads the Building Commission subcommittee, which oversees the planning of the new campuses, and is committed publicly to four-year development of the schools.

Jack Close Installed By Retailers

New officers of the Appleton Downtown Retail Association were installed Wednesday. New chairman is Jack W. Close; William Boettge is vice chairman, A. O. Seifert, treasurer, and Robert W. Weyenberg is retiring chairman.

The division of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce also gave its year-end report.

Some of the projects were the development of charitable organization solicitation control guidelines, sponsorship of a shopping clinic and the purchase of an employee training program film.

The group supported the establishment of the Appleton Downtown Christmas Lighting Division and the cashier system for Soldiers Square parking ramp.

In addition it sponsored a "Draw Your Mother" contest, Fox Cities Foxes Booster Night, Appleton Night at the fair, sidewalk sales, dollar days, Santa House, Moonlight Madness, and a college relations program.

Appleton Ratifies Street Resurfacing

Council Okays 20 Miles of Work At Assessment of $1.18 Per Foot

The city council Wednesday attempt was being made to repair streets in their entirety, resulting in longer stretches being resurfaced at one time.

"I admit that a block or two of some streets on the list may be marginal but they will need the work next year so it was decided to do it all now," Keuler explained.

He also cautioned aldermen not to let the exterior of a street fool them. "They may look alright, but when tests are made it is a different story," Keuler commented.

Ald. Robert Ebben (9th) said one of the considerations of tabbing streets for resurfacing is that underground utilities must be in good shape.

"It's no use resurfacing a street this year when the utilities are slated to be replaced in 1968," Ebben explained.

Motions by Aids. Walter Kalata (2nd) and Norman Beyer (20th) to cut two streets from the list were voted down by the council.

"I don't think this council should tamper with the proposed resurfacing program, or the whole thing will be going down the drain," Ald. Paul Klemmer (11th) warned his colleagues.

Question Corner Lots

Ralph Watts, 1419 S. Outagamie St., was among the handful of residents who appeared at the hearing. He supported the resurfacing program but thought greater priority could be given other streets, and also suggested a new formula be arrived at for corner lot assessment.

At one point Ald. Pointer explained more work was being done in certain parts of the city to keep away from the central business district which is becoming congested with the College Avenue reconstruction.

Pointer agreed the corner lot assessment policy should be given another look, but also reminded that streets selected for repair represented engineering decisions.

He felt that with a break from the weatherman, the 20 miles of streets could be completed this summer, pointing out that contracts are being awarded and work started far ahead of previous years.

Streets Scheduled

In addition to those put on the resurfacing list as holdovers from last year, the following street projects were included in this year's program:

Brewster Street from Drew to Summit.

Monroe Street from Fremont to McKinley.

Spring Street from Badger Avenue to Oneida.

Spring Street from Oneida to Lawe.

Winnebago Street from Linwood Avenue to Drew.

Alicia Drive from Cedar Street to Pine.

Brewster Street from Meade to Rankin.

Douglas Street from Highland Avenue to Spencer.

Drew Street from Wisconsin Avenue to Pershing.

Fourth Street from Mason to Story.

Grant Street from Drew to Meade.

Oklahoma Street from Richmond to Mason.

Highland Avenue from Linwood Avenue to Badger Avenue.

Jarchow Street from Lindbergh to Marquette.

Lawrence Street from Victoria to Outagamie.

Lorain Court from Linwood Avenue to Outagamie.

Hancock Street from Union to Superior.

Melvin Street from Douglas to Outagamie.

Oakcrest Drive from Prospect Avenue to Lehmann Lane.

Roosevelt Street from Morrison to Drew.

Reeve Street from Linwood Avenue to Winnebago.

Firemen Extinguish Blaze in Paper Mill

KAUKAUNA — Firemen were called about 6:10 p.m. Wednesday to extinguish a fire in a shredder at the lower mill of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co.

Firemen spent nearly two hours at the scene before extinguishing the blaze which was confined to the shredder bin. Shredded paper is blown into the bin before being carried to boilers for burning as it cannot be reprocessed. Damage was limited to the shredded paper and bin interior which will have to be cleaned.

Rescue Squad Makes Two Hospital Runs

The Appleton Fire Department rescue squad took Lous A. Webster, 115½ N. Douglas St., to Appleton Memorial Hospital after he became ill in his car which was in the 100 block of E. North St., about 8:40 a.m. today. Webster experienced difficulty breathing.

At 3:27 p.m. Wednesday, the rescue squad took John Fransway, 2½, 825 N. Division St., to Appleton Memorial Hospital when the boy suffered convulsions.

Weyauwega Woman Complains of Injury

Marie E. Aeby, 211 E. Summer St., Weyauwega, complained of a neck injury after her car and a truck driven by Henry Horn, 47, 1308 E. Candee St., Appleton, were involved in an accident about 11:50 p.m. Wednesday at W. Wisconsin Avenue and N. Mason Street.

Appleton police said the Aeby car was northbound on Mason when it went through a flashing red light and collided with the eastbound truck.

Police Looking for Transmission From Car

Appleton police are investigating the theft sometime during the past week of a standard, four-speed transmission from a car parked behind A and W Auto Body, 718 W. Glendale Ave.

The loss was discovered when employees of the firm tried to move the car Wednesday. The transmission is valued at $150, police were told.

Conversion of Courthouse Heating System Considered

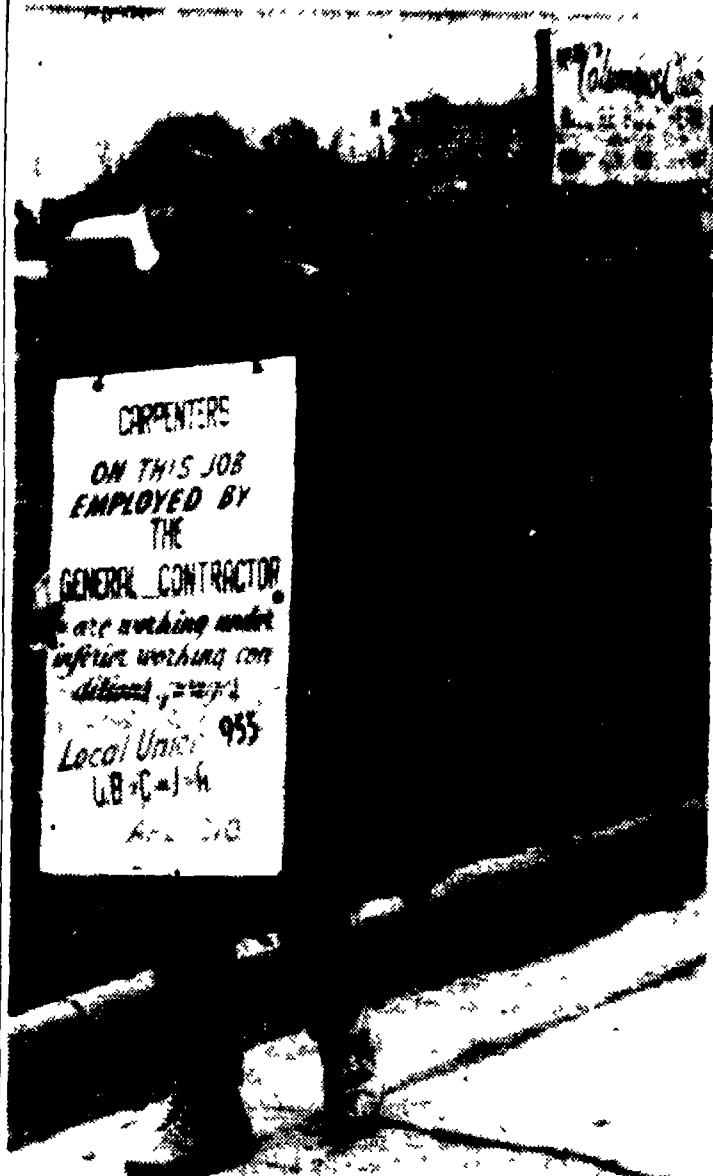

Outagamie County authorities are considering converting the courthouse heating system from coal to gas heat.

The subject was raised this morning by Supv. Patrick Mares (Appleton) at a meeting of the county board's public property and insurance committee.

Supr. Waldemar Klein (Appleton), committee chairman, said plans for the possible change-over would be discussed at the April 20 committee meeting.

Mares said that if the work is to be completed by next winter's cold season, bids will have to be advertised so work can begin soon.

The committee declined a $75 per month offer by Griesbach Equipment, Inc., to rent two cow bars on the abandoned county farm for use as storage space. They considered it too low. Klein appointed Mares and Supr. Bernard Thilman (Grand Chute) to negotiate with the firm and report back to the committee with recommendations.

Construction of the New Knights of Columbus building on N. Richmond Street was affected today by picketing by Local 955 of the Carpenters and Joiners Union, AFL-CIO. The union claims non-union contractors are doing the work. The lone picket at the jobsite, Calvin Bogenschutz, was enough to halt concrete deliveries by union truck drivers. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Proposed Zoning Changes Spur Menasha Construction

MENASHA — Permits for construction of five new duplexes on the northeast side have been issued to members of the same construction firm, in time to beat common council action to control construction of two-family dwellings.

Aldermen asked Wednesday night for an ordinance to give them and the planning commission power to restrict future duplex building.

Tuesday, Building Inspector Earl Kaim issued permits to Nofke Bros. Construction Co., Eugene Nofke and John Nofke for duplexes to be built at 916, 965 and 968 Grove St. and 912 and 940 Clovis Ave. Bare building costs of each were listed at $15,000.

The building permits account for half of the total of 10 residential permits issued this year.

Beer Parties Cost Neenah Man $55

NEENAH — Myrton T. Anderson, 21, 817 S. Commercial St., forfeited $55 instead of appearing in Winnebago County Court Branch III on a charge of furnishing beer to minors.

Anderson admitted having beer parties at his home for youths aged 14 to 18 in the course of the last six months.

Neenah police questioned the man after some of the boys told Appleton authorities they had received beer at his home on March 23. Anderson told police about 16 youths were at that party.

Boscobel Man Dies In One-Car Crash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The death of a Boscobel man has raised Wisconsin's 1967 highway fatality toll to 180, compared with 206 on this date a year ago.

Leo R. Rurnen, 51, of Route 1, Boscobel, was killed Wednesday afternoon in a one-car accident on U. S. 61, south of Fennimore. Grant County sheriff's deputies said the car left the highway, flipped over and slammed into a utility pole.

Aldermen Absent

The new buildings are all in the same neighborhood in the Sixth Ward. The ward's aldermen, Louis Gammy and Robert Winarski, have led the effort to control duplex construction. But Gammy, who made an election eve plea for the measure, was absent Wednesday from the council meeting. He raised the issue Monday as a result, he said, of complaints from constituents. He was unsuccessful in a re-election bid in Tuesday's voting.

His term continues until Tuesday, April 18 and included Wednesday night's meeting, a committee of the whole session April 17 and the council's "sine die" session the next night, in addition to any sessions that might be called for the street and sanitation committee, of which he is a member.

(Fifth Ward Ald. Edward Krablean, who declined to seek re-election because his private job took too much time, was also absent.)

The council asked City Atty. Richard Steffens to draw up a revised zoning ordinance placing single-family and two-family dwellings in separate zoning classes.

Councils Back State Proposal On Annexation

Nearly Identical Resolutions Passed By Neenah, Menasha

NEENAH - MENASHA — The common councils of the Twin Cities have adopted nearly identical resolutions declaring in the flowing prose of Menasha City Atty. Richard Steffens their support for unilateral annexation laws.

The resolution covers a wide and deep range of arguments, from statements of glowing ideals to recitations of basic facts of practical politics.

It is a virtual summation of the arguments of the cities for greater power to expand their boundaries. It is also a guaranteed hackle-raiser for leaders of town government.

Preamble

A preamble of approximately 700 words begins with the statement, "The ability of municipal corporations to expand, alter and adjust their boundaries is vital to the solution of many problems of urban government and metropolitan areas."

Annexation and consolidation are termed "the means whereby a single local government may obtain the authority needed to solve the major problems of an area, be they schools, water supply, air pollution, transportation, police and fire protection, or sewage needs."

Orderly Growth

"The very purpose of annexation is to promote orderly urban growth," wrote the legal mentor of Menasha's efforts to expand into its unincorporated suburbs. The resolution added, the city believes annexation to be "the best single solution to the political, social and economic problems caused by a fragmented and overlapping local governments in growing urban areas."

Specific reasons for favoring annexation were listed as:

—Continuation of the city's orderly growth and prosperity.

—Rational and economic extension of public service facilities such as sewers and water.

—Inclusion of fringe areas under municipal land use control and regulation.

—City police and fire protection for the fringe areas.

—Fringe area health and sanitation regulation and services.

—Provision for fringe area residents to bear the full burden of costs of benefits they receive from the city government.

No Boundary

Annexation, continues the resolution, is an act of recognition that political boundaries don't prevent the spread of urban problems. While bringing order and enforcing cooperation throughout an area, "Annexation permits a city to control its own manifest destiny."

Nothing Missing in Golf Club Burglary

Nothing appeared to be missing following a burglary Tuesday night or early Wednesday at the Butte des Morts Golf Club.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators said entry into the building was gained by breaking a 9 by 12 inch glass on the south side of the building. Investigation is continuing.

Pasteurization Renders Organic Fertilizer Safe

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M. D.
Dear Dr. Molner: Our boys in Vietnam are getting hepatitis, unless they have shots of gamma globulin to protect them, because of the human sewage otherwise, to prevent colds and upper respiratory infections. Flu shots will protect anyone of any age against the principal strains of influenza. They are particularly urged for elderly folks, for those with chronic respiratory or heart ailments, pregnant women, and people in key occupations, because such people either are in more danger if they have flu, or having them laid up for a week with flu would be a hardship not only for them but for the public.

If you don't fit those categories, your object in having a flu shot is just to protect yourself against the unpleasantness of flu. It's a good idea.

You are right that organic fertilizer is made from sewage from at least one of our major cities, but there the comparison with Vietnam ceases.

Such human waste, being rich in nitrogen and some other materials, makes excellent fertilizer. But in untreated form, it also contains germs of various types.

In this country the material is dehydrated, and the processing amounts to a particularly effective form of pasteurization. The germs are destroyed, and the fertilizer becomes safe to use. In Vietnam and a good many other countries there is no processing, and the germs remain.

Your Money's Worth

Things to Consider In Buying a New Car

BY SYLVIA PORTER

We're into the peak auto buying season — and if you are typical of the hundreds of thousands who will be buying cars in coming weeks, you will shop the dealers carefully, bargain hard with each to get the best trade-in or cash price.

If you are typical, though, you will not shop for your best financing deal, and the interest charges and other costs you may assume may more than offset what you save by bargaining over price.

This is downright silly, for you need know only a few key facts to get the best financing bargain too. Specifically:

(1) There are just two basic methods of auto financing. You may borrow the money you need directly from a bank or other lender and turn over the money to the auto dealer. Then you'll pay off your loan on a routine basis to the lender you select.

Or you may arrange your financing through the dealer who sells you the car. In this case, you'll generally find that instead of carrying your loan himself, he will sell your time-payment contract to a bank or auto finance company so he can get his cash right away.

The contract you sign may, in fact, bear the imprint of the financing agency to which you actually are making payments.

(2) Auto loan costs vary not only between types of lenders — such as banks and finance companies, but also between individual lenders of the same type.

Among types of lenders, the auto loan rate, nationwide, is lowest at commercial banks and credit unions: $4 to $6 per $100, according to authoritative sources. This compares with $5 to $7 per $100 on auto finance company loans obtained through dealers.

Some Comparison

To illustrate what this means, say you get a three-year $3,000 loan through your automobile dealer at the minimum per $100 rate. Your total credit charge would be $450. Say you get this same loan direct from a bank or credit union at the minimum $4 per $100. Your total charge would be $360, or $90 less.

Since auto loan rates also vary between individual lenders of the same type, it's important to have a quick basis for comparison shopping. The key figure here is the total dollar cost of your loan, and if you have difficulty getting this figure from your lender, you can find it out by simple arithmetic.

Just multiply the monthly payment by the number of months you are to pay. From the resulting figure, subtract the amount you are borrowing. The remaining sum is the cost of your loan.

(3) Among other cost items on which it is possible to save are insurance and incidental fees.

Insist on Insurance

To protect their equity, all lenders have a right to insist that you carry collision, theft and fire insurance for the duration of your loan. But while banks, for example, let you buy this insurance where you wish, some other lenders ask that you buy this plus other insurance through them. In this case, you should compare costs, for you may be able on your own to obtain rates that are much lower or you may prefer to do business with your own agent. As for extra fees, you should inquire what, if anything, the various lenders are charging for investigation, recording, notarizing, etc. Here again, you may be able to save by shopping.

(4) The most expensive way to borrow is to make a small downpayment and arrange to repay over a long period. The cheapest way to borrow is to make a large downpayment and repay your loan as quickly as you can. The difference between fast and slow repayment of an auto loan can run into hundreds of dollars in interest.

How you finance your car can, in short, protect your savings on trade-in or reduced price or it can eliminate them. Particularly at this time of rapidly changing interest rates, you should shop for your auto money.

Bid Accepted On Street Work In Kaukauna

Shiocton Firm Tries To Withdraw Due To Error In Tabulation

KAUKAUNA — The council Wednesday night accepted low bid from Sommers Construction Co., Shiocton, of $103,896 for concrete street paving to be carried out this summer. Donald Green, city attorney, ruled the bid was legal even though the firm admitted making a mistake in tabulating prices.

The bid, about $16,000 lower than the second low bid, was received at a March 20 meeting of the board of public works.

The next morning the city engineer received word from the contractor indicating a mistake had been made. The firm requested to have the bid withdrawn.

Bid Less

On March 21 the council took no action on bids as the city engineer was not available for a ruling. Green, in reviewing objections, indicated the contractor did not show clear and satisfactory evidence of a mistake in the bid and recommended acceptance of the low quotation.

Sommers bid $4.36 per square foot for 7-inch pavement and $4.26 per square foot for 6-inch pavement, 49 cents on the former, and 55 cents on the latter, below the next low bid. After accepting the bid, aldermen set a $6.55 per side lineal foot assessment for street improvement and scheduled a public hearing for 7 p.m. April 17.

Walter Roloff, president of Roloff Manufacturing, offered to rent parking space off Wisconsin Avenue to the city at a price of $491 per year. The area is suitable for 18 cars. If refused by the city, Roloff asked to have the area rezoned to permit him to rent parking space to interested individuals. The offer was referred to the engineer and board of public works for study and recommendation.

Donahue and Associates, Sheboygan, engineers for the new sewage disposal plant, provided aldermen with a breakdown on estimated monthly payments for construction during the next year, and the report was referred to the finance committee to permit investing of unused funds on short-term notes.

Plans Approved

Department of Resource Development approval was received on plans for the sewage plant construction. The Chicago and North Western Railway agreement to sell approximately 14 acres of land to the city was extended to July to permit that firm to settle problems arising from a warehouse fire in the area earlier this year. Board members indicated railway officials would be asked to speed up purchase procedure as much as possible.

Six applications for city stenographer were referred to Ald. George Simon, Ald. Clayton Blumreich and Karl Marzahl, city clerk, for study and recommendation. Theodore Smits, fire inspector, was authorized to attend a League of Municipalities Institute at Stevens Point April 19-21.

Goodland Field Sought for Plant Expansion

development "comes as a big surprise" but assured the club would not stand in the way of progress.

City officials conceded the baseball club officials have had a frustrating time since last fall when they first started negotiations with the park-recreation board to get Goodland Field renovated.

Asked whether the Chicago White Sox parent organization would continue its affiliation with Appleton in the Midwest Class A League if clubhouse facilities were not constructed this year, Rahn said he thought the White Sox "would go along for another year."

"However, there will have to be more than just talk of something going to happen or we will lose professional baseball in Appleton," Rahn warned.

He disclosed that last fall the White Sox were willing to pay $25,000 toward a $50,000 park renovation project but the park-recreation commission said it did not have the matching funds. The Sox then withdrew the offer.

Fresh Start

Aldermen were critical of the commission last night for not calling the matter to the attention of the city council at that time. But the council said it was "water over the dam" and a fresh start was in the making.

Rahn said the Foxes and White Sox wanted evidence of positive action on the part of the city to provide improved facilities for baseball. With this assurance, Rahn said, he thought the Chicago club would agree to stay here for 1967 and possibly 1968 until a new facility was ready.

The latest turn of events leaves the council with the prospect of selling Goodland Field, which is earmarked as an industrial site on the land use plan, and also undertake development of a new sports center.

Pointer, council president, said the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce served as the intermediary in arranging an informal meeting Monday of city officials with representatives of Miller Electric and the ball club.

Mayor Alerted

Mayor George Buckley said he also had been contacted and was alerted of the industry's desire to acquire Goodland Field. He said the firm wanted possession sometime in 1968.

Outagamie County officials have indicated a desire to cooperate with the city on establishing a new sports-recreation center and possibly donate a site.

MacDonald suggested a course of action that:

- City officials and Miller Electric negotiate a sale price
- The city and baseball club decide what improvements are "a must" so the park can be used for a year or two more
- The city and county, along with baseball club officials, meet at an early date and discuss possible sites for a new complex
- Construction of a new field or stadium be included in the city's capital improvement program

A Seminar Series on Welding processes and power sources has opened at the Neenah Vocational and Technical School with Edward R. Pierre, director of training and technical sales, Miller Electric Manufacturing Co., as instructor. Pierre, with 27 years in the welding industry, has authored several books, texts and papers in the field. From left are Roger Guyette, Neenah Foundry; Larry Blohm, Panske Welding, Neenah; Leo Patt, trades coordinator for the Neenah school, and Pierre. The sessions include eight 2-hour meetings.

Roomer Loses Key; Creates Disturbance; Fined $75, Costs

A 62-year-old northside man's troubles began when he lost his apartment key Tuesday night, and ended the next afternoon when he was fined $75 and costs or 36 days in jail on a disorderly conduct count.

Edward E. Bodah, 1215 N. Lawe St., was arrested in his apartment about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday by Appleton police who found the man spattered with blood.

The owner of the rooming house called police and said a roomer had just come home from work and found a broken kitchen window, and bloody knives on the kitchen floor. Police said they found blood stains on the rear door, in the gram and financing be arranged.

Assistance Offered

On the basis of studies made by the Chicago White Sox, Rahn said it would cost between $500,000 and $1 million to build a sports complex. He indicated the White Sox had planning specialists who would assist the city in designing any future facility.

To allay fears of some aldermen that if the latest industrial development was "merely talk" the region would face the loss of professional baseball, MacDonald declared "No comparison can be made with a recent previous experience. No middle man is involved, there is no mystery and the firm's desire to acquire the property is supported by a letter."

Previously, Ald. Orville Strutz (17th) said in looking back on industrial park dealings of the past few months "... Just words scare me. I hate to see us lose professional baseball on words and promises."

Vital to Appleton

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd) said Miller Electric and the Fox Cities Foxes should be considered as major industry and business, respectfully, both vital to Appleton.

Conversation was replaced by action when Ald. John Ayers (12th) moved that the city immediately start negotiations for the sale of Goodland Field to Miller Electric, and also to begin planning for a new baseball field or stadium complex.

MacDonald this morning scheduled a meeting of the commercial and industrial development committee with Miller representatives for 2 p.m. today at the city hall.

Goodland Field is in the 7th Ward. It is comprised of 83 acres and was acquired by the city in 1934.

driver of the Pontiac that ran into the rear of his car at Badger and Wisconsin Avenues, then almost struck him (Bell) as the Pontiac sped away, going west on U.S. 10.

Chmiel objected to Bell's testimony, saying it concerned an incident unrelated to the fatal accident. County Judge Gustave J. Keller overruled the objection.

Bell testified that he gave police the license number of the hit and run car. Patrolman Delroy Nitzband of the Appleton Police Department said that one of the three cars in the fatal crash had the same Illinois license plate. He also said that traffic on U.S. 10 at the time of the accident was "very heavy."

Appleton police said Lubeck never was officially charged with hit and run.

Capt. Marvin Green, another Appleton policeman, said he was eastbound on U.S. 10, with his family, when an auto alleged to be the Lubeck vehicle approached "going at least 65" and appeared to be "out of control." He said he met the car seconds before the crash. Green said he and the driver of the car ahead of him pulled to the shoulder to avoid the oncoming auto.

Others called by Schaefer to testify as to the alleged speed of the Lubeck car or as witnesses to the accident, included Thomas Techlin, 18, 1606 N. Outagamie St., and Thomas J. Selig, 23, 1023 W. College Ave.

Question Judgement

Chmiel, in his cross examinations of the state's witnesses, attempted to show that they were not qualified to judge speed by visual observations.

Testimony for the state ended late Wednesday afternoon. Included among the other witnesses were two bartenders, Arthur Plantikow, 312 Taylor St., Little Chute, who said Lubeck had "from two to four" 12 ounce bottles of beer at Tony Wonder's Club the afternoon of Sept. 5, and Elton Schultz, now living in Manitowish, who said he later served Lubeck "two or three drinks" at the Little Alibi Club, 906 W. Wisconsin Avenue in Appleton.

Talbot Peterson Heads Organization Backing Nixon's Candidacy

Talbot Peterson, former state chairman of the Wisconsin Republican Party, is lining up leaders for a Wisconsin presidential campaign organization for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Peterson said Tuesday that the Nixon for President committee in Washington will make the final choice of Wisconsin leaders.

He served as state chairman from 1963-65 and has long been an active supporter for Nixon for whom he has been working since last September when Nixon was in the state campaigning for GOP congressional candidates.

Library Funds Cut Expected at New Campuses

Claim Development Too Intense for Two Years

Post-Crescent News Service

MADISON Major cuts are expected to be made this evening in library appropriation requests for new University of Wisconsin campuses in Brown and Kenosha counties, it was learned today.

Under consideration at the evening budget hearing before the legislative Joint Committee on Finance will be the entire UW budget, and closely examined will be a $2 million request for library development at all campuses in the system.

Assemblyman John Shabaz, R-New Berlin, is expected to move reductions in library development at the newest campuses, aided by Assemblyman David Martin, R-Neenah. The cuts would reduce the size of the libraries at opening from a requested 45,000 volumes to 20,000.

Size Unwarranted

Reasons cited by proponents of the changes include the argument that the sizable holdings will not be needed by the small enrollments expected during the first two years of campus operations. Fewer than 1,000 students are presently expected on the Green Bay campus in 1970.

The American Library Association and the American Association of Junior Colleges both say that a two-year school will more than 500 students needs a library of only 20,000 volumes.

State university libraries are far smaller than UW system libraries, and the new schools in early years will be more comparable to the state university system than the research-oriented UW, they claim.

Republican Sen. Robert Warren of Green Bay and Assemblyman George Molinaro, D-Kenosha, are expected to fight the reductions, but Shabaz and Martin are thought to have eight votes assured on the 14-man committee.

Cost Estimate Of Planning for UW-GB Hiked

of four year schools at both sites by closing area two-year centers in 1970 to create vastly increased student bodies, and necessitate sizable space increases at both schools.

But Bureau of Engineering analyst Gerald Germanson, author of the figures presented to Leonard and the subcommittee, said after the meeting that planning alterations could be made even after authorization for the current planning procedures was given. The CCHP plan, he says, does not call for different facilities, but only more than currently planned.

Leonard rejected a suggestion from commission secretary Gerald Emmer that $200,000 in surge space be cut from the Parksides plans to compensate for the $13 million cost estimate, about $200,000 over the plans already approved for the new schools.

The temporary space at Parksides is not a part of a major building as it is in the Green Bay plans, Emmer said, and therefore could be cut.

Leonard pointed out that $200,000 represents a minor segment of a $13 million budget, and that other adjustments certainly could be made if necessary before the construction of the buildings.

Offers Amendment

County Boards Group Asks for Home Rule

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — There is no reason why any element of public opinion in Wisconsin should oppose its plan for a change in the state constitution to give counties home rule as now possessed by cities and villages, the Wisconsin County Boards Association said today.

The association has introduced into the legislature, for first approval, an amendment to the basic law of the state that would revise the uniformity of county government requirements in such a way as to give counties the power to legislate local affairs without explicit legislative authority for each function.

Won't Interfere

The uniformity requirement would be retained with respect to the method of electing county supervisors from supervisory districts.

The association said its amendment has been drawn in such a way as to prevent any interference with the existing home rule rights of cities and villages.

County officials and critics of county government have complained for years that the constitution in its present form puts the counties in a legal strait-jacket, since they are enabled to act only as statute law expressly authorizes. Thus they are "creatures" of the state, in the legal sense. Under the revision contemplated, counties could act on their own initiative on local problems, according to varying local conditions and circumstances, and popular desires on local legislative needs, it has been explained.

Drive Started

The drive for the constitutional amendment was approved by the association at its last convention. It will be the major 1967 legislative objective of Robert Mortensen, recently named association manager to replace the veteran A. J. Thelen, retired. Thelen continues to represent the association on a consultative basis.

"The enactment of a home rule statute for county government would solve many of the increasingly complex problems facing county government in our state," the association is telling legislators.

Students of local government have maintained that the role of the counties in local government will grow, as urban populations split into rural areas and as suburban developments continue and require services beyond the ordinary municipal jurisdictions.

C of C Forms New Christmas Lighting Group

Division Schedules Meeting to Form Policy, Name Officers

A new division of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce, the downtown Christmas lighting division, will meet April 13 to elect officers and formulate policies, according to an announcement by president John B. Torinus.

The new division was formed officially at a recent meeting of the chamber's board of directors.

A new 1967 holiday street lighting program for downtown Appleton will be the division's first objective.

Appointed to the governing board of the division were: J. K. Babbitt, Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.; Ralph O. Boettcher, J. C. Penney Co.; A. M. Diedrich, F. W. Woolworth Co.; T. H. Gilleland, Leath Furniture Co.; R. J. Gloudehans, Gloudehans Co. Inc.; Stuart H. Koch, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co.; and M. E. Olson, Outagamie County Bank.

Officers will be named from the governing board and include a staff member of the group. Board members will serve for three year terms and membership in the division will be open to any member of the Appleton organization.

Court Grants Two Divorces, One Annulment

Two divorces and an annulment have been granted in Outagamie County Court.

Ruth E. Callagee, 43, 1017 N. Fair St., was awarded an annulment from Frank J. Callagee, 53, 1325 N. Oneida St., on grounds that Callagee was not legally qualified to be married.

The couple was married Sept. 15, 1965, and had no children. A property settlement was approved.

John P. Fien, 23, 932 Seventh St., Menasha, was divorced by Sharon Fien, 23, 718 W. Franklin St., Appleton, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Married April 15, 1963, the couple has two children. The court withheld a decision on alimony and support.

Duane G. Krueger, 25, who is serving a sentence in the Outagamie County jail, was divorced by Susan R. Krueger, 25, 520 E. Commercial St., on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. The couple was married Nov. 14, 1959, and have three children. A property settlement was approved.

Lawrence Reading Programs Scheduled

The first of three Lawrence Reading Programs scheduled this month will be Saturday at the Holiday Inn Central, Milwaukee. Lawrence faculty members will speak at the day-long program.

Similar programs are arranged for April 22 in Appleton and April 29 at the Water Tower Inn, Chicago. Principal panelists for those programs will be Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and John E. Dever, city manager, Decatur, Ill.

AAUW Completes Plans for Tuesday Evening Style Show

The Neenah-Menasha AAUW is going strictly modern in its annual spring style show. Adopting a "Design '67" theme, the 8 p.m. Tuesday program at the Menasha Elks Club, will be contemporary in decorations and last-minute fashion.

Among fashion houses to featured in the show, through the courtesy of Toni's Casual Corner, are Gino Paoli, Carlie, Amalfi, Alexa, Edith Flagg, Sloat Skirt and Golf Outfits, Rubin, God Goldworm and Piccolino.

Mrs. William Neer and Mrs. Ronald Gray are co-chairmen of the show, from which proceeds are annually used for local and national scholarships.

Committees

assisted by Mrs. Richard Anderson, Mrs. William Hanson, Mrs. Frank Buhl, Mrs. Gerald Engeldinger, Mrs. John Rickner and Mrs. John Congdon; hostess, Mrs. Douglas Stern, chairman, with Nancy Moss-holder, Miss Mary Colleen Walsh, Miss Pat Crandall and Miss Cynthia Packard, and decorations, Mrs. Joel Grallock and Miss Helen Firkus, assisted by Mrs. Neil Collins, Mrs. Wayne Cheng, Mrs. John Guhl, Mrs. Marjorie Gunn, Mrs. Jayme Olson, Mrs. Jack Giese and Mrs. Robert Wick.

Mrs. Don Allan has charge of publicity, with Mrs. Gary Bezella assisting.

Models for the show will be Miss Michaela Prange, Miss Tori Thurston, Mrs. Robert Prange, Mrs. Fred Thurston, Mrs. Glen Schilling, Mrs. John Behnke, Mrs. Dennis Holmes, Mrs. Craig Cebert, Mrs. Dexter Below, Miss Robyn Cale, Miss Marlene Wegner, Miss Claire Frank, Miss Penny Gustafson, Miss Nancy Jean Patro and Miss Sherri Munson.

A Tradition

The American Association of University Women has a long history of helping in the education field through the granting of scholarship and fellowship funds. A local award was started in the Twin Cities in 1952, when Miss Marigen Braun of Neenah High School, now Mrs. Russell Carpenter of Neenah, was the first winner. A grant of $200 was given each year, with girls from Neenah, Menasha and St. Mary High Schools competing for the scholarship.

This year, for the first time, a scholarship of $100 will be awarded a girl at each of the three schools. Among criteria for selection are: must be in upper 15 per cent of class academic work; must plan a four-year college course, and must have made leadership contributions to school and community. Each applicant must write an essay of not more than 200 words explaining why she wishes to attend college and telling her immediate and long range goals. The selection committee is not told the identity of applicants before selection. Mrs. Richard Anderson is scholarship committee chairman. Working with her are Miss Carol Jean Kline, Mrs. Warren Griffith, Mrs. John Ashenbrucker and Mrs. Neil Collins.

Awards Day

Announcement of scholarship selection will be made at the individual schools' awards day programs. All will be guests at the Neenah-Menasha AAUW May 23 dinner meeting.

Besides local scholarships, AAUW has an extensive fellowship program, helping women undertake graduate study both in the U.S. and abroad. In 1965-66 the branch awarded a $500 grant in the name of Mrs. Hans Hefti in recognition of her outstanding contribution to AAUW. She is presently state implementation chairman for the national study topic "Revolution in Modern China" and is a charter member of the branch.

Miss Carol Kline is fellowships program chairman.

Co-Chairmen of the Tuesday Style Show at the Menasha Elks Club got a preview of what some of the models will wear at the program. Mrs. William Neer, Neenah, and Mrs. Ronald Gray, Appleton, saw outfits to be modeled by Mrs. Robert Prange, Neenah, and David Johnson, Appleton, who will model Babb's Menswear. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Decorations will be strictly modern for the Neenah-Menasha AAUW Tuesday evening style show. Assembling centerpieces this week were Mrs. Neil Collins, Miss Helen Firkus and Mrs. Joel Garlock. At right, the principal of St. Mary High School, the Rev. David Kiefer, talks over the change in the local AAUW scholarship program with Mrs. Richard Anderson, chairman of the committee.

Son-in-Law's Vacation Turns Into Permanent Leave

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are baffled. We don't know what to think. Our son-in-law decided he needed a vacation from our daughter. They had been married only 11 months and weren't getting along too well. I must admit she wasn't a very good wife. She couldn't manage on his income, borrowed from her father and me and nagged her husband constantly about insignificant things that should have been overlooked.

Our son-in-law went to Mexico by himself — to "think things over." Our daughter moved back into her room so she wouldn't be alone in their apartment.

This morning we received a telegram from our son-in-law saying he will not be back for several months, and he is divorcing our daughter for reasons of illness.

What does this sound like to you? — Stunned Parents

Dear Parents: It sounds like he is sick of her.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am fed up and disgusted with people who say, "Honesty is the best policy."

Twice this week I was asked to give an honest opinion. Well, I gave an honest opinion and both times I got into terrible trouble. I have made an enemy for life and I was kicked out of English class for the rest of the term. In our school when you get kicked out of class you flunk the course and have to take it over again next semester.

You hear all these high sounding phrases about honesty being the best policy, but I have learned first-hand that it doesn't pay. A person is much better off to lie and stay out of trouble. So why don't you come right out and admit it since you pride yourself on giving good advice? — Truth Is Trouble

Dear Trouble: I notice that you did not provide a single detail of the incidents which brought forth your sterling qualities and landed you in trouble.

Many people delight in tearing friends to pieces, leaving not a shred of dignity and they call the butchery "being frank" or "simple honesty."

Yes, it pays to be honest, but it does not pay to be punitive and brutal. And this is probably your problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wish those unhappy wives who have lost their husbands to "The Other Woman" would stop calling them "Tramps." True, some one-night stands deserve the name, but the majority of "Other Women" are intelligent, attractive and very much in love.

Sex alone will not hold a marriage together, nor will it sustain an affair. "The Other Woman" provides something the wife doesn't otherwise she would not be in the picture. It might be compassion, understanding adoration or just old-fashioned appreciation for his presence. Maybe he just means to be around someone who doesn't nag him, or belittle him, or make him feel inadequate.

So wives, take stock of yourselves. If you want to keep your husbands happy don't give them any excuses to roam. There's an old saying that if you feed a man well at home he won't go to restaurants. — Kitten

Dear Kitten: Some men prefer restaurants to home cooking just because it's different. The rest of your letter, however, makes a great deal of sense. Thank you for writing.

Ann Landers will appear as a guest on the Mike Douglas Show from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Friday on WLWK-TV, Channel 11. (Copyright, 1967)

The Aims and accomplishments of volunteer workers in the Y was discussed informally by the trio at right. They are Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, director of women's and girls' activities at the Appleton Y; Mrs. Edwin Rohloff, Oconomowoc, and George Rushton, who spoke after the noon luncheon. Below, discussing the morning program, are Mrs. Donald Kutchera, Oshkosh; Jack Tanner, Milwaukee, a morning speaker; Mrs. Corrine McCunn, Wausau, and Mrs. Thomas E. Orbison, who gave the opening invocation. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Y Volunteers Discuss Aims, Accomplishments

So many things crowd for a person's time and attention these days that a person almost has to see some personal need fulfilled in accepting one more volunteer task, George Rushton, management development coordinator at Kimberly-Clark Corp., told participants at the Wednesday Conference for Women Volunteers in the Y. Speaking after the noon luncheon at the Appleton YMCA, Mr. Rushton explored the questions, "Why Should I? What's in it for me?"

The speaker said the question was a natural one, for in everything one does he is trying to satisfy a personal want. Need is a common human denominator, and the same things can be done by a number of people for entirely different reasons.

Common Needs
Quoting George Bernard Shaw, Mr. Rushton said, "As long as I have a want I have a reason for living. Satisfaction is death." He outlined the kinds of need. The first is physical and has to do with self-preservation. The second is psycho-social, and involves the care and feeding of the mind. Within this ego-preserving concept are the needs for security, including economic, a sense of belonging and personal adequacy; self-esteem, or an acceptable opinion of oneself; status, or being well thought of by others, and self fulfillment, or realization of one's full potential.

tial and accomplishment of personal objectives.

Wants and needs and the degree of each vary from person to person, he said, but the need for recognition is in all of us.

Women have been faced with a vastly changing life pattern in the 20th Century, Mr. Rushton said. As these changes take place women have more skill and ability, and more time, which can be wasted or invested. Women are now making choices in how to make their contributions to home and family, and still lead well rounded lives themselves. It is never too late, he said, to look outward and find uses for one's abilities and interests. He cited women's increasing involvement in volunteer work, listing a variety of health, education and welfare groups which simply could not exist without the volunteer.

Important Work
Organizations which offer only "busy work" to the volunteer are finding themselves losing such women, who want to contribute important and necessary jobs to organizations they believe in. Mr. Rushton cited the philosophies of Socrates, who said, "Know Yourself"; Plato, "Control Yourself"; and Christ, who said, "Give Yourself" as the way to personal fulfillment. He said the four greatest words were, "Let me do it." To volunteer, he said is to give oneself. Each must answer for himself how.

The Conference, attended by

Y volunteers from Oshkosh, Neenah, Oconomowoc, Wausau and Des Plaines, Ill., got underway with a 10 a.m. welcome by Auxiliary President Mrs. Walter Brummund, who introduced Mrs. Thomas E. Orbison. Mrs. Orbison, whose father started the Appleton YMCA, gave the invocation.

Needed Them
General Y Secretary James Warrick told the women that the 9,000 hours contributed by auxiliary members were a necessity for the Y to be effective on its operating budget. Volunteers are often skilled workers, better equipped for some duties than members of the professional staff, he said.

Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, director of women's and girls' activities, said that the volunteer undertakes responsibility for the next generation.

Benefits To Both
The morning session included a panel composed of women from the Des Plaines, Oshkosh, Oconomowoc and Appleton Auxiliaries, who explained the 'why' of a Y auxiliary, with attention paid to the benefits received both by the Y and the volunteer.

Jack Tanner, Milwaukee, Associate Secretary of the North Central Area YMCAs, said there are 78 Y's in this area, and that the Y is the world's largest business organization. He noted the need for leadership and leadership training.

Volunteer services were discussed in an afternoon buzz session, before the summing up by Mrs. Brummund. Visitors were given a tour of the new Family Y after adjournment.

Help Your Partner Ease His Woes

In some hands the defense is difficult from one side of the table but easy from the other. If you are a good partner you must make things easy rather than present a problem to the unfortunate person across the table from you.

last month in the annual inter-collegiate championships, West usually opened the ace of hearts and continued with a heart to the king. Now East was in trouble.

It was possible that South had no diamonds. In that case East might defeat the contract by returning a heart at once in the hope that West would get two trump tricks.

Whenever East did so South made the contract by discarding his singleton diamond on the third round of hearts. West could ruff, but then declarer easily won the rest of the tricks.

West Holds Key
East cannot be faulted for making the wrong decision at the third trick. Actually West holds the key to the problem.

West should assume that his partner holds the king of hearts and an ace. Any defense will work if East has the ace of spades, but East must be guided if he has the ace of diamonds. West should steer his partner in the right direction by shifting to a diamond at the second trick.

East is forced to take the ace of diamonds. Then he cashes the king of hearts and leads another heart. If South ruffs low, West overruffs; and if South ruffs with an honor, West's 10 of spades eventually becomes high.

Bad Diet Takes Actress to Clinic

Actress to Clinic
—MILAN, Italy (AP)—Princess-actress Ira Von Furstenberg has been checking into a Milan clinic for what she says is treatment for the adverse effects of a reducing diet.
Looking pale and unusually slim, Miss Von Furstenberg talked to a reporter Wednesday night at the Columbus clinic here.
"I have been in and out of the clinic for a week and have a few more days to go before doctors here kiss me off good as new," she said.
"It was a bad slimming diet, not properly checked, that brought me down. I feel much better now."

Wanderer With Wealthy Past Establishes Buddhist Religion

"All life is suffering. Work out your own salvation with diligence."
These words of Buddha, or 'Enlightened One', are the foundation of the belief of several thousand people in Southeastern Asia.
John Stanley, Ph. D., of Lawrence University's Department of Religion, presented the second of a five-session course entitled "World Religions" Wednesday morning at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Campus. His lecture was on Theravadian Buddhism.
"As in the case of other religions," commented the instructor, "most of the written history of Buddha and the religion he founded was recorded several hundred years after his death. Furthermore, it was written down by Buddhist monks, who interpreted the stories and gave it a Buddhist perspective."
Approximate Dates
Scholars and historians have theorized Buddha lived from approximately 567 to 487 B.C.
There are primarily two types of Buddhism, one following the Mahayana tradition and the other the more orthodox Hinayana sect.
"The Hinayana type was originally broken down into four other smaller divisions. However, three of them died out. The remaining one, Theravadian Buddhism, is still alive today," explained the professor.
Mr. Stanley traced the history of the religion, which began in a northeastern kingdom of India.
Aristocratic Heritage
The mother of Sudarta, Gautama, who later became Buddha was a woman of Indian aristocracy. When she was 45 years old she had a dream that a white elephant entered her left side with a lotus flower and when he left, he didn't have the flower with him. A prophet interpreted her dream for her, telling her she was going to conceive a child who would either become an emperor or a wanderer.

It is written that Sudarta was born prematurely and at the time of his birth stood upright, took seven steps and said to those around him, "This is my last birth; henceforth there will be no more births for me." This statement is especially important, as Buddhists believe in rebirth, regarding it as something painful and frightening.
Seven days after his birth, the baby's mother died. On the seventh day of its life it was customary for a newborn child to be named. Sudarta's father, who hoped his son would become an emperor gave him the name, Sudarta, meaning "Gaining a Goal."
Prophet's Advice
His father consulted a prophet who advised the only way to insure Sudarta's becoming an emperor would be to keep him from looking at The Four Seelings, which were a sick man, a dead man, and old man and a Hindu monk.
The worried father built a wall around his home, a moat around the wall and placed guards at strategic points to keep his son from seeing the outside world. He heaped wealth on his son, provided him with playmates and even provided a home for the young Sudarta and his wife when he married.
Bribed Guards
However, Sudarta was curious about the outside world and historians say he bribed the guards and escaped into the outside world. He immediately saw the four seelings and realized that existence was painful.
Sudarta and his wife had a son, whom he named Rahula, which meant "little one who ties me to this world." He later became a follower of his father. A few days after the birth of his child, Sudarta, at the age of 29 set out on his "great going forth", never to return home again.
He was offered a home and teachers by a king into whose court he had wandered and who had recognized him as a great man. Sudarta turned down the offer of a home, but did allow the king to present him with five teachers. He later left the teachers in disgust.
The young man wandered throughout the country, seeking his enlightenment. He later joined five Jainistic monks, and with them practiced starvation for six years, in order to find eternal bliss, or nirvana.
Reached Enlightenment
He finally decided he couldn't starve into nirvana, and ate.
Only then he reached his enlightenment sitting under a Bo tree for seven continuous days. He became the "Buddha." On the seventh day, he learned the Four Noble Truths and the Eight-Fold Path of life.
These four truths which make up the Buddhist doctrine are: all life is suffering; suffering is caused by desire; suffering may be ended by eliminating desire, and desire is eliminated by following the Eight-Fold Path.
"Theravadian Buddhism makes no reference to help coming from a supernatural power," said Mr. Stanley. "Each person is on his own."
Another change in this form of Buddhism today is that it has moved from India, where it was founded, into southeastern Asia.
"When some people see the statues of Buddha in the temples," concluded the instructor, "they have the mistaken impression Buddhists pray to them as gods. The statues which depict Buddha in deep meditation are there mainly as inspirations to his followers."

Jingo Says Carson's Only Hurting Himself

Nebraskan Who Made Big Time May Have Started His Slide Downward

BY JINGO
The decision of Johnny Carson to resign as star of "The Tonight Show" is unfortunate for him.

Jingo
The boyish, 41-year-old Nebraskan who successfully made the transition from the Plain States to Gotham City and the big time may have loosened the first string toward undoing himself.

Carson listed as his reason for quitting the fact that NBC is using re-runs of the show during the AFTRA strike. He claims it is in violation of his contract, while NBC contends otherwise.

But why should he quit? One of two reasons pops into mind: 1) He wants to sneak out of the remaining two years of his contract with NBC (after all, he makes no bones about how restricting the nightly show is), or 2) He's trying to get into a strong bargaining position for a rewritten contract, considering Joey Bishop is set to open in less than two weeks on ABC.

More in Poor Taste
Whatever the reason, the move is in poor taste. If it's for the first possibility, Carson's days as a super draw are numbered. If it's for the second reason, he's a greedy man.

Let's talk straight for a minute. Carson, no matter how he states it or what reasons he gives, is not going to get the sympathy of the masses as far as the unusual hours he must work. They're not THAT tough.

And if he thinks that people won't react in a hostile manner to any move to make more money (if that is his intent), World he's not very perceptive. How can a man earning $5,000 a year, supporting six kids, driving a seven-year-old car, and struggling to pay off an $11,000, 30-year-old home, have empathy with a man earning $500,000 a year for NBC and considerably more than that in night clubs? It can't be done, Johnny.

Better Think Twice
If Carson thinks that dumping the "Tonight" affair is going to help his future in show biz, he'd better think twice. Once that sweet face with its reservoir of expressions and reactions isn't on the telly nightly, Johnny's drawing power will suffer.

Consider for a moment: Carson is not a good actor, his singing is below average. His main talent is his ability to make things funny when they're not — a talent necessary to survive on his show.

But once that wonderful exposure is gone, it won't be too long before you hear, "Oh ya, Carson. Didn't he used to..."

Grim Tale Told on 'Dragnet'

8:30-9 — Channels 4-5 — Dragnet 1967 has a fine show that should be enforced viewing for everyone who has a driver's license. It's grim and frightening, and a plea for more care when seated behind the wheel of a weapon. In a powerful piece, Jack Webb describes, by the tenth of a second, what happens in the first second of a head-on impact at 55 miles per hour.

9-10 Channels 11-12 — "A Time for Laughter" on ABC Stage '67 is funny, biting, strong stuff for TV. Produced by Harry Belafonte, it is a look at Negro humor through the years. Sidney Poitier is the host, and Diahann Carroll, Dick Gregory, Diana Sands, Godfrey Cambridge and Belafonte are the performers well known to the general public. But it's old-timers Pigmeat Markham, Redd Foxx and Moms Mabley and young Richard Pryor who offer the brightest comic segments. Markham is a judge in a slapstick skit with Belafonte and Miss Carroll which leads to her song, "Good Lovin'." Foxx is a "signifier" in a great pool room monologue, Moms Mabley is the maid in a skit with Cambridge and Miss Sands as a pair of nouveau-riche, very elegant Negroes, and young Pryor is a nervous young man trying to deliver a funeral oration.

6:30-7:30 Channels 4-5 — Daniel Boone has a change of scenery as Dan'l and Rebecca are visiting Philadelphia. There he suddenly finds himself being asked, by the first lady, to carry ransom to secure the release of John Adams, the kidnapped President.

7-7:30 Channels 11-12 — F Troop comes to the end of its new shows with an episode called "Is This Fort Really Necessary?" which is ironic since the show may not be renewed. The plot concerns a soldier known for deactivating forts who comes to Fort Courage, followed by his fiancée, a female who once loved Sgt. O'Rourke.

7:30-8 Channels 2-7-12 — Ernie's charm is too much for the entire family on My Three Sons. He wobbles, weaves and wavers through the latest dance so well he steals Chip's girl.

7:30-8:30 Channels 4-5 — Star Trek takes a leaf from Time Tunnel's book and comes up with an interesting piece of science fiction. It also gives the show a new look as William Shatner and Leonard Nimoy spend most of the time on earth, circa 1930. They are there because DeForest Kelly, berserk from an accidental overdose of a powerful drug, has stepped through a time vortex and landed in the past where he may change the course of history — and not for the better.

8:30-9 Channels 11-12 — That Girl, which begins repeats next week, spoofs TV shows like The Dating Game. Marlo Thomas winds up on The Dating Game, a program for "love lovers," enchanted by the suave answers of one of the panelists (Alejan-her boy friend, Ted Bessell, is dro Ray). Only she doesn't know/also on the panel.

Unionization Will Correct Medical Injustices, Society Head Believes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The methods and the purposes of unionization may provide the answer to the mounting political troubles of American medicine and correct the injustices to physicians and preserve their rights, the leader of the State Medical Society of Wisconsin believes.
Dr. Frank Drew of Milwaukee, in an editorial in the journal of the state society, warned that "half the house of recommended to Wisconsin medicine has already burned and been destroyed." Without radical action, he said, medicine will be totally regimented by outsiders including the government.

He said doctors tend to flinch at the idea that unionization in the field of medicine is the answer to its troubles, but he

Dr. Drew lamented that during an era when American medical science is phenomenally advancing and winning the admiration of men throughout the world, doctors are losing control of their profession.
If trends continue, the time will inevitably come when "the physician may be helpless to direct his contact with the patient or to maintain his personal relationship with him," he wrote.
"The giant federal programs of medical care are sapping the life out of the business side of our chosen profession. Regimentation is already upon us as seen in the many directives we have to comply with now," he said.
Image Damaged
The doctors' image is being damaged through such outside controls, while he is being blamed for such problems as rising hospitalization costs over which he has no control, Dr. Drew continued, and resented for asking for just compensation for his services.

He declared:
"Labor at the turn of the century was faced with the same dilemma. They had the choice of being peons or to rise and organize to defend their rights against management. They organized and operated as a unit. Their just benefits and rights have been preserved. Their right to unit action financially and politically is not questioned."

"We need a new concept of organization and we need it now, not years hence when we have nothing left to preserve."
Wayward Boys Will Get Foster Parents
EAST GREENWICH, R.I. (AP) — Plans for the Washington Oaks Home for Wayward Boys in Foster call for foster parents to live with the youths, who have been referred from Family Court, in hopes of changing them from potential delinquents into responsible members of the community, says the Rev. Harry McInture, executive director of Opportunities, Inc., the project sponsor.

76ers Push Celtics to Brink of Elimination

Name Dick Schultz MVP on Lawrence Basketball Team

Bock, Simon Also Get Awards; House to Lead Swimmers Again

By JIM HARP Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Varsity and freshman athletes from the three Lawrence University winter sports were honored at a banquet Wednesday night at Colman Hall.

Highlight of the event was the presentation of individual awards to three basketball players and the introduction of team members and lettermen by the respective coaches.

Dick Schultz, captain of the basketball team and the only senior on the squad received a trophy as the most valuable player through a selection by other members of the team. Schultz led the team with 362 points this past season and closed his career with 1,088 markers, the second-best total in Lawrence history.

45-Point Effort

Schultz also was cited for his 45-point effort in the final game of the season, an all-time Lawrence record and the third-highest total ever scored in the Midwest Conference.

Brian Bock received the trophy for the best free throw

Win, 115-104; Hawks Stop San Francisco

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sun began rising in the West, rivers starting running uphill, the Beatles walked into a barber shop, and the Boston Celtics stood on the verge of elimination in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Boston sank three games behind Philadelphia in their Eastern Division playoff and another 76er victory Sunday in Boston would unseat the Celtics after eight years as NBA champions.

The 76ers moved the Celtics closer to the brink by whipping them 115-104 Wednesday night for a 3-0 lead in their best-of-7 series as Wilt Chamberlain controlled everything.

In the Western Division, the result was less traumatic as the St. Louis Hawks pulled away from visiting San Francisco in the third period and beat the Warriors 115-109 for their first triumph in three playoff games.

Sets Rebound Record

Chamberlain took the game in Philadelphia into his own big hands, scoring 20 points, assisting on nine baskets, and pulling down a playoff record 41 rebounds. He shared the old mark of 40 with Boston's Bill Russell.

It was big Wilt's dunk in the final period that put the 76ers ahead to stay 100-99, and when Wally Jones followed with three baskets and Chet Walker one for a 108-102 spread, the game was over.

Chamberlain had help from Hal Greer, who scored 30 points, and Jones, who hit 21.

Russell gave it a battle as he John Havlicek and Sam Jones tried to protect the unprecedented reign of the Celtics. The player-coach grabbed 29 rebounds, had nine assists and scored nine points. Havlicek had 33 points and Jones 22. Bill Bridges played the superior.

Packers Sign Three More Draft Picks

GREEN BAY (AP) — Three more draft choices have signed with the pro football champion Green Bay Packers.

They are:

Keith Browne, 6-foot-5 inch, 215-pound flanker from Central Missouri, who also starred in basketball and is NCAA javelin champion. Browne was the 13th draft choice of the Packers.

Claudius James, 6-foot-2 190-pound Jackson State quarterback who will be tried at offensive halfback. He was the 14th choice.

Fred Cassidy, 6-foot-1 213-pound offensive half back from the University of Miami in Florida, the Packers' 16th choice.

Hardy Wins Rebounding Award; Jack Tops Free Throwers

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN Post-Crescent Sports Editor

"You'll go down as one of Xavier's greatest," Coach Gene (Torchy) Clark told the 1966-67 Xavier High School basketball team at the annual banquet Wednesday night.

Clark called the team's record (23-3) "fantastic" and said the Hawks played in the "best conference in the state." He noted that the Fox Valley Catholic Conference was stronger than it's ever been.

The coach lauded Xavier's consistency through the season and told his players, "Don't second-guess yourself on the Pennings (state tournament) game." Clark added, "We could have been 15-7, and I would have settled for 20-5" as he pointed out that the Hawks won six of seven games that were decided by five points or less.

"Each year, the pressure gets higher at Xavier," declared Clark. "It's harder to win now than in the 1962-3 period of Bleier, Whittinger and Weisner."

Our club may have done more this year than ever... We snuck up on everyone in 1962-3, but we can't do it any more."

Special player awards were won by Dan Hardy (for rebounding) and Gene Jack (free throw accuracy). Clark awarded letters to seniors Hardy, Jack, Tom Heinritz, Terry Graff, junior Pat Fitzgerald, and sophomores Brad Graff, Mike Clark and Tom Thomson.

He won the free throwing trophy with a 69.7 mark.

"Most Underrated"

Hardy was termed "the most underrated player" on the team. He improved tremendously and led the team in rebounding, Clark noted. Pennings Coach Don LaViolette called Hardy the key to the Xavier team, according to Clark.

Clark said Heinritz rates as one of the two best defensive players Xavier has ever had. The other was "Rocky" Bleier. Heinritz is "my type of athlete," said Clark.

Terry Graff provided the

Giants' Patton Retires After 12 Years as Pro

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Patton, a New York Giant defensive back for 12 years, retired Wednesday to accept a job as convention manager for a cigarette company.

Patton, 33, joined the Giants as a No. 8 draft pick in 1955 and immediately became a regular. He intercepted 52 passes from his safety position during his career in the National Football League. He played in four Pro Bowl games and received All-Pro honors seven times.

The former Mississippi star served as a player-coach with the Giants from 1962 through 1964 but asked to be relieved of his coaching duties in 1965.

The retirement of Patton left Jim Katcavage, defensive end, as the player with the longest service with the club. He will start his 12th season this fall.

Colt Rookie Being Charged With Arson

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A 6-foot-7 professional football tackle scheduled to report for training with the Baltimore Colts was charged with arson Wednesday after fire heavily damaged the home of his estranged wife.

The player, Robert H. McKinney, 24, of Pratt City, Ala., suffered serious burns in the blaze.

Officers said McKinney was arrested Tuesday at Morton, Miss., about 30 miles east of Jackson, where his estranged wife was living with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Essix Jr. The Essix home went up in flames Tuesday but the Essixs and Mrs. McKinney were not at home.

McKinney remained at University Hospital under police guard for treatment of second and third degree burns over 20 per cent of his body.

In Baltimore, General Manager Harry Holmes said McKinney had signed last year as a free agent and was to report with other rookies to training camp July 16.

'Sunout' Halts Cub-Angel Tilt In Las Vegas

Game Ends 10-10 As Pitcher Can't See Home Plate

By RON RAPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

It was former Dodger pitcher Billy Loos who once explained an error by claiming he had lost a ground ball in the sun, but that could hardly have prepared the baseball world for the great Las Vegas sunout.

It happened Wednesday when the Chicago Cubs and California Angels were locked in a fierce exhibition struggle in the gambling capital.

The score was 10-10 and Angels pitcher Rickey Clark leaned in, looking for the plate, but couldn't find it. The sun, on the horizon directly behind the plate, was so blinding, in fact, that he couldn't see much of anything.

Clark called umpire Stan Landes to come out to the mound and take a look. Landes agreed the situation was intolerable and called the game off.

Williams Hits Pair

Billy Williams batted in five runs for the Cubs, two each on a pair of tremendous home runs. But the Angels scored four unearned runs in the ninth that tied the game.

Paul Schaal and Jimmie Hall hit home runs for the Angels.

Elsewhere on the baseball scene, the Baltimore Orioles assigned Steve Barber to their Rochester farm club to see if he can work into shape for the opening of the major league season next week. A mainstay of the Orioles' staff last season, Barber has been troubled with an inflamed tendon in his pitching elbow.

In a night game with the New York Yankees, the Orioles took a 5-3 decision despite six innings of shutout pitching by Mel Stottlemyre for the Yankees.

Giants Tip Indians

Ken Henderson's run-scoring double in the 10th sent San Francisco to a 6-5 triumph over Cleveland. Bob Aspromonte's three-run homer was the big blow in Houston's 10-3 victory over Los Angeles.

Washington came up with four runs in the ninth, two scoring on a single by Doug Camilli, and bounced Boston 5-1. Jim Nor-

Tigers, Twins Given Solid Chances to Win

AP's Hand Says Orioles Will Repeat

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore has too many Robinsons for the rest of the American League and should win a second straight pennant. In this book the only teams with solid chances to upend the favorites are the Detroit Tigers and the Minnesota Twins.

Despite the sore arms on Hank Bauer's pitching staff, the Orioles combine booming power, a tight defense and a strong bullpen. Bauer got only 23 complete games out of his staff last year but won easily by nine games and then swept the World Series in four straight.

It is tough to pick against a combination like that although the writer toyed with the idea of selecting Detroit. It is the feeling here that the Tigers could win it all but they have too many ifs in their pitching staff and could be ruined by an injury to a front liner.

With the addition of Dean Chance, the Twins do have formidable pitching but too much depends on a comeback by Bob Allison and development in center field. The latent power is present for another year like 1965.

Chicago's pitching should keep them in the race and Cleveland and California probably will fight it out for the other first-division berth.

The New York Yankees figure to escape the cellar but it will be an upset if they crack the top five. Kansas City has good young pitching which could be enough to put them ahead of Boston and Washington.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. Baltimore
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. California
7. New York
8. Kansas City

Larry Newman
Heads Viking
Golf Team

2 Other Lettermen
Back; Sophomores
Dominate Squad

Underclassmen, especially sophomores, hold the key to the chances of success for the Lawrence University golf team which is currently working out under the watchful eye of coach Bernie Heseltin.

The 11-man roster includes only one senior. There are four juniors and six sophomores. Heading the list of three lettermen is senior Larry Newman. Major loss through graduation was Tom Hedin who played in the No. 1 spot last year when Lawrence had a 6-5-1 record for the season. Also graduated was Gus Murphy who played in the No. 5 spot.

Newman will probably take over the No. 1 spot. He finished a strong fourth in the Midwest Conference meet in 1966 and was second to the conference medalist.

Other lettermen who are expected to help bolster the Viking linksmen are John Schulenburg and John Schade. Schulenburg played as No. 3 man as a sophomore and Schade alternated at the fourth and fifth spots a year ago.

Two other golfers also were on the team last year but did not earn a letter. They are Hugh Denison and Bob Boeving, who are expected to be strong contenders for the places this spring.

Heseltin observed: "We're looking for a good season. We need experience and if our sophomores come through we might surprise a few people. This team could have very good balance."

Heseltin has had his candidates out swinging in practice sessions. "What we need now is to get out and play," the veteran mentor added, "we're hoping for good weather so area courses will be able to open soon."

Cindy Hibbard
Hits 181 and 480
In Bantam Loop

Nine-year-old Cindy Hibbard stole the spotlight in Junior League bowling at the 41 Bowl recently when she fired a 181 game and top series of 480.

Cindy's high scores were rolled in the Bantam Division for those between 8 and 12 years of age. Pat Castleman was runnerup with a 410 series.

In the Junior Boys Division, John Spiski had a 425 series while leader was Terry Haertl with a 182 game and 483 series.

Fond du Lac's
Shady Takes Over
Pin Classic Lead

WEYAUWEGA — Gerald Shady, Fond du Lac, rolled an 897 series to take over first place in Class A competition in Radtke's Individual Handicap Classic.

Oshkosh's George Mitchell (861) dropped to second. Greenville's Ron Ulman moved into the third spot, with an 815.

In Class B competition, Bill Bredlin, Fond du Lac, rolled a 826 series to tie for second place with Bud Drager, Oshkosh.

Appleton's Vin Schampers continues to lead Class B, with 894. Fond du Lac's John Mackert retains the Class C lead, with an 842 count.

Golfers' Ability to Sink Long
Putts Impresses Bob Jones

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The great Bob Jones says the thing that impresses him most about modern tournament golfers is the way they sink long putts.

"I am constantly astounded," the immortal grand slammer told a group of newsmen who called on him at his white cottage adjacent to the Augusta National course.

"In our day (the 1920s and 1930s), we were satisfied on long putts just to get the ball close enough to the hole to get down in two."

"Now these fellows say to sink everything. I never saw the day I could putt like them."

Jones, who won 12 major titles and climaxed his career in 1930 by winning the U.S. Open and Amateur and British Open and Amateur, added, however, that he wouldn't have been able to take as much time as some modern players do on the putting surface.

"If I stood over the ball as long as some of them do now, I would freeze," he added.

Helen Michiels Slams 609 Honor Series

Helen Michiels slammed a 609 at the 41 Bowl. Her best game national honor series — the first of her 8-year bowling career — on Michiels Lanes, Sherwood, Tuesday night.

Her big series included games of 226 and 198. She had seven successive strikes enroute to the 226. Mrs. Michiels' previous high was a 594 in 1965. She bowls once a week in the women's league — where she has a 157 average — and twice a month in a couples league.

This is the second national honor set of the season at Michiels after a 4-year drought. Joan Giesen fired a 613 last December. She compiled a 547 a fair tuneup for the Masters count (including a 192) Tuesday. Dorothy Vogel recorded a 194.

Wednesday night's top score among area women was a 559 with 23s, and Palmer took the battered by Anna Jane Diedrich, on the first extra hole. 4

Johnson Works Hard At Restoring Unity

Finally Taking His Case to Aides
Of Senators, Democratic Chairmen

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Shortly after undergoing minor surgery last fall, President Johnson received a handwritten "get well" letter from Senator Vance Hartke of Indiana, one of his sharpest critics over the war in Vietnam.

Whether by intention or oversight, the letter was neither acknowledged nor answered.

This bit of background is vital to understanding the change of direction represented by Mr. Johnson's latest efforts to bind up the gaping wounds in the Democratic party brought on by the bitter dispute over his war policies.

Novak

Nearly five months later, on March 22, one day after Ho Chi Minh rudely rejected the President's bid for peace talks, Hartke sent another handwritten letter to the President. In it the President's war critics, including Hartke (a onetime LBJ dissident from continuing his ally), whose friends emphasize search for negotiations. Wrote Hartke:

"Since the stalemate which now revolves around who stops what first, I hope you will now ask U Thant (Secretary General of the UN) to arrange a limited cease-fire. . . My prayers are with you, Mr. President."

Two-Page Reply

This time there was an answer. Three weeks later a two-page reply arrived from the White House Oval Office, signed by Lyndon Johnson. As one of the clearest expressions of U. S. policy, a key paragraph is worth repeating here. Mr. Johnson wrote:

"Hanoi has never acknowledged that it is involved in South Vietnam or that it has carried 'acts of war' against South Vietnam or against us. Each time we ask Hanoi, whether openly or in secret, to give us some indication of what they are willing to do in return for a lessening of the level of our actions, we get only the same well-grooved propaganda record: stop the bombing."

Moreover, said Mr. Johnson, the question is not so much "who stops what first." He continued:

"We have said we are prepared to act first — provided the other side gives us assurance of what it will do in response."

None of this is going to change the deepening concern of the President's war critics, including Hartke (a onetime LBJ dissident from continuing his ally), whose friends emphasize search for negotiations. Wrote Hartke: "Since the stalemate which now revolves around who stops what first, I hope you will now ask U Thant (Secretary General of the UN) to arrange a limited cease-fire. . . My prayers are with you, Mr. President."

One evening last week, for example, Mr. Johnson invited the chief aides of some 30 Democratic senators for a full-scale White House briefing from his high command on the war in Vietnam.

This was the first war briefing he has ever supplied congressional assistants, and its high point, following a long recital by Secretary of State Dean Rusk on the President's peace overtures, was an emotional appeal from Mr. Johnson for understanding of "my problems."

"He's trying to close the credibility gap with Congress," said one of those who attended. Meets State Chairmen

Then, later in the week, President Johnson made an even more emotional appeal for support to hard-headed, vote-counting politicians who came here for a conference of Democratic State Chairmen.

Recalling Harry Truman's commitment of U. S. resources in the Greek-Turkish aid program in 1947, Mr. Johnson said that Mr. Truman's political poll-stock plummeted to near 30 per cent. He took his licks then, said Mr. Johnson, "and he was right."

Mr. Johnson also read from Carl Sandburg's biography of Lincoln to the effect that, before the 1864 election, Lincoln expected to be defeated because of his war policy.

The obvious implication: Lincoln was right, even though condemned by many fellow Republicans. More important, he went on to win a second term as President.

How much effect this new presidential offensive may have in restoring support for him inside his own party remains to be seen. But Mr. Johnson's strenuous efforts to stem the menacing tide of political dissent within the Democratic party shows how fast that tide is running. The indicator is that he's answering letters such as the one from Vance Hartke.

Buchanan to Increase Assessed Valuation

DARBOY — Buchanan voters agreed to raise the town's assessed valuation 10 per cent across the board at the annual meeting Tuesday.

The increase was approved to bring the assessed value in line with the equalized value set by the state. The assessed valuation with the proposed raise will be about $3,100,000.

New Rules to Set Standards For Housing

May be More Restrictive for Migrants' Employers

MADISON — New federal rules governing housing and facilities to be furnished by employers of migratory workers may be more restrictive than those now imposed by the state government and most of the states of the country, the Wisconsin Canners and Freezers Association said today.

The association advised its canning company members and others that the U.S. Department of Labor has given notice that it has under consideration a proposal for a revision of existing federal regulations.

Under the present system, the federal government requires that the state employment agency certify that state and local rules for the protection of migrant workers are being honored.

The proposed amendment would require that the agency must also determine that the housing and facilities conform to the standards prescribed by the President's Committee on Migratory Labor, it was said. The federal government enforces as its standards through its control over the recruitment of workers.

The association said one of the proposed new rules that may be difficult for many employers to meet would prohibit the location of a worker camp less than 200 feet from an establishment distributing or processing food products.

Many of the other rules, including standards for cooking facilities, size of sleeping rooms and ratio of window area to floor space, would also be more restrictive than those now imposed by state regulatory authorities and familiar to most

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — American soldiers manning a guard post in the Korean demilitarized zone clashed with a North Korean patrol Wednesday afternoon in one of the most serious gunfights since the 1953 Korean armistice. The U.N. command said four North Koreans were killed, but North Korea claimed it had five dead and one wounded.

The U.N. command said there were no U.S. casualties.

North Korea's Central News Agency said the North Koreans were civil policemen on "routine duty" in the north portion of the demilitarized zone. 1.2 miles east of Panmunjom.

Sgt. Robert W. Hawkins, of Charleston, W. Va., in charge of the guard post, was a witness at the investigation of the incident.

He said he opened fire when surprised by a group of advancing North Koreans who suddenly appeared about 45 feet away "with rifles ready to fire."

Came Under Fire

Hawkins testified he and two of his men, who were about 250 feet downhill from the guard post, immediately came under automatic weapons fire from woods on the North Korean side of the armistice line.

The U.N. command said the North Koreans crossed the armistice line into the U.N. portion of the demilitarized zone, and after the American guards spotted them there was an exchange of fire "including fire from North Korean concealed positions across the military demarcation line," which divides the demilitarized zone.

An informed source said a 15-minute gunfight took place after a U.S. patrol challenged the group of seven or eight North Koreans and the Communists opened fire.

The clash occurred about 165 feet south of the military demarcation line and about 35 miles northwest of Seoul, the source added.

U.S. Accused

The Communist account claimed "the U.S. side fired all of a sudden hundreds of machine gun and automatic rifle shots" into the Communist side of the truce zone.

The North Koreans also claimed the Americans agreed to an on-the-spot investigation Wednesday night but failed to send observers. The U.N. command asked for a meeting today of the Joint Military Armistice

Each side accused the other of violating the Korean armistice.

Rodong Shinmoo, the North Korean Communist Party newspaper, charged "U.S. imperialists" were seeking to "provoke" the clash.

War Declared 50 Years Ago Today

Many Recall It, Others Weren't Born

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty years ago today the United States entered World War I — called the Great War until a greater one came along — and stepped toward a role in world leadership.

On that day, Lyndon B. Johnson was an 8-year-old in a Texas hamlet.

Hubert H. Humphrey, 6, was learning his ABCs in Wallace, S.D.

Robert F. Kennedy was not born until some eight years later.

Still There

But there is one man who was in Congress when war was declared April 6, 1917 who is still there — Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz. He'll be 90 next fall.

Hayden came to the House in 1912 on admission of Arizona as a state. He served there until elected to the Senate in 1926.

In a war anniversary interview, Hayden recalled long hours of debate before the House passed the war resolution 373 to 50 in the early morning hours of April 6.

But of all that was said, Hayden related, "I remember most distinctly the remarks of Jeanette Rankin, the lady from Montana."

Miss Rankin, a Republican and the first woman elected to the House, did not respond until her name had been called four times on the roll call. Then, close to tears, she stood and said, "I want to stand by my country, but I cannot vote for war. I vote no."

Overwhelming View

Hayden said when he voted for the war declaration he was expressing the overwhelming view of his constituents.

One incident that moved the United States toward war was disclosure of a reported German proposal to Mexico that it, Germany and Japan join in a war against the United States. Mexico, it was suggested, would get the states of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

Hayden related that with the declaration of war he and a number of his House colleagues began to talk about volunteering.

"Three members joined before (President) Woodrow Wilson issued an executive order to prohibit any more of us from joining," Hayden continued.

"One of them was Fiorello La Guardia of New York.

Served Until End

"By the middle of 1918, when this ban had kind of been forgotten, four of us went down and enlisted and served until after the armistice."

He named the other three as retired Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, then a Texas representative; another

Communists Stage Big Raid, Jailbreak

SAIGON, (AP) — Communist troops smashed at U. S. and Vietnamese military positions and staged a jailbreak today at Quang Tri, a provincial capital 16 miles south of the border that would be a primary objective of any new mass invasion attempt from the north.

They ringed the city in raids between midnight and dawn.

They attacked U.S. anti-aircraft gun positions and the headquarters of two Vietnamese army regiments and shelled the U.S. military advisers' compound.

They freed more than 200 prisoners from the provincial jail — most of whom had been picked up as Viet Cong suspects.

10 Americans Die

Initial reports said 10 American soldiers were killed and 13 wounded while the Communists left 47 men dead. Two American government civilian employees were injured.

Eight trucks were burned at one post and four jeeps and three trucks were damaged at another. At a small airstrip, two light observation planes were shot up.

More communists 6th graders

The Communists are known to have some 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars in the province and just to the north above the 17th Parallel. They made a serious effort to move into the province in strength last year and are known to thirst for a propaganda victory there.

Most of the fighting in Quang Tri has been done by North Vietnamese regulars, and the Viet Cong guerrilla units there are laced with North Vietnamese replacements.

Few Marines

How many Reds were involved in the attacks early today was not immediately known. The attacks centered on the provincial capital which is near the coast and about a dozen miles north of Hue. There are few U. S. Marine units in the immediate area.

Garrison Gets Indictment of College Student

Layton Martens Formerly Lived With David Ferrie

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Jim Garrison's controversial Kennedy assassination conspiracy probe has spawned its second perjury indictment.

Layton Patrick Martens, 24, a college student who once lived with David W. Ferrie, was indicted Wednesday by the Orleans Parish (County) grand jury on a charge he lied under oath.

"It's an attempt by Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison to discredit any and all witnesses who did not bolster the Garrison investigation," said Martens in Lafayette, La.

Arrangement was made for Martens to surrender at the sheriff's office today, with bond set at $2,500.

The indictment was issued about three hours after Clay L. Shaw, 54, a retired New Orleans executive, pleaded innocent at arraignment in Criminal District Court on a charge of conspiring to murder President John F. Kennedy.

Martens' indictment was based on his testimony of March 29 while being questioned before the grand jury by Garrison in regard to the burglary of an explosives storage bunker near Houma, La.

Relieved at Preparations

Governor Inspects Floods

LA CROSSE (AP)—Gov. Warren P. Knowles flew over the flooding Mississippi River Wednesday and expressed confidence that the rising waters could be caged.

"It's kind of a relief to see things are as stable as they are, that the people are as well prepared," Knowles said.

The governor, flying in an Air National Guard plane, covered 90 miles of the Mississippi from Cassville to La Crosse, then took an auto tour of this soggy city that suffered $80 million damage in the record floods of 1965.

The river was lapping two feet above banktops here Wednesday and still climbing toward a crest at 3½ feet over flood stage Saturday. Other crests were forecast at 4½ feet over flood level at Prairie du Chien and five feet above at Cassville early next week.

State Civil Defense Director Bruce Bishop, who accompanied Knowles, said, "They're all without question fighting a terrific fight that comes from the experience of '65."

'Panic Calls'

The bulging, gray waters were pushing their way into lowlands at La Crosse and Prairie du Chien, but the flooding bore little resemblance to the record rampage of two years ago when the peak reached nearly six feet over banktops in this riverside city.

Knowles said he made the four-hour trip for a first-hand look after his office was flooded with "panic calls" from Eau Claire and Durand all the way downstream to Cassville.

"We found conditions are much better than we had anticipated and the preparation is excellent," the governor said.

Knowles' plane landed at the French Island airport, which was covered by the 1965 floods.

At one point, his auto caravan drove along a shore road on the island about two feet below the river surface. Emergency dikes held back the waters.

10 Leftists Arrested in Bomb Plot

BERLIN (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in West Berlin today and was given a heavy guard after a police roundup of 10 young extremists who had fashioned explosives to make a possible attempt on his life.

The vice president flew here to reaffirm U.S. support for the Communist - surrounded city after conferences with government officials in Bonn. He said the talks convinced him the friendship between the two countries is strong and secure.

Humphrey arrived at John F. Kennedy Platz in front of City Hall and was greeted by about 2,000 persons despite threatening weather. It was in that plaza that Kennedy in 1963 declared to cheering thousands: "Ich bin ein Berliner (I am a Berliner.)"

Police said they seized the 10 plotters Wednesday night as they were preparing explosive bombs and plastic bags filled with chemicals for an assault on the vice president. The youths' attorney said they told him they were preparing smoke bombs.

Disciples of Mao

It was reported that some of those arrested were members of the leftist German Socialist Students Group. An informed non-German source said the youths were disciples of Red China's Mao Tse-tung.

Authorities said that a preliminary examination by police specialists showed that the confiscated chemicals "in the right mixture were suitable for the production of generally dangerous explosives."

A spokesman added, however, that an "exact analysis still had not been determined."

"You could conclude that they could have been used for very dangerous throwing objects," he added.

One source said the explosives were to be thrown along Humphrey's route and into the city hall during his visit.

First Incident

It was the first incident since Humphrey arrived in West Germany Wednesday and competed for attention with the diplomatic success of his mission to Bonn.

As he arrived at Bonn airport for the flight to Berlin, Humphrey told newsmen his discussions with West German chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger, foreign minister Willy Brandt and President Heinrich Lübke were "constructive and helpful, exactly what they should have been."

Star-Studded Strike

Signing Autographs Keeps Pickets Busy

NEW YORK (AP) — For nine days, long black limousines have pulled up at the three major broadcast networks to discharge their stars, not for work, but for what must be the most star-studded, highest-paid picket lines ever.

There was for instance, John Daly, son-in-law of the U.S. chief justice and erudite moderator of the CBS panel show "What's My Line?"

Around and around the CBS building he went, his back and chest emblazoned with black and red letters proclaiming, "CBS Unfair to AFTRA" (the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists).

He stopped to sign autographs and chat with admirers, and proposed electrically heated picket signs for winter strikes.

Hasn't Shown

But the real Walter Cronkite hasn't shown up to picket, although he has not gone to work either. Nor has David Brinkley of NBC.

ABC's network newscaster, Peter Jennings, did turn up for his strike placards at least once and was so mobbed by screeching fans that he may have had second thoughts about showing up again.

The striking Cronkite, Brinkley and Jennings, and many of their companions, earn annual salaries well into six figures. They walked off their jobs for some 100 members of their 18,000-member union who make around $300 a week.

Cost Estimate Of Planning for UW-GB Hiked

Subcommittee on University Affairs
Delays Authorization

MADISON — The university affairs subcommittee of the state Building Commission has delayed until this afternoon consideration of increased authorization for further planning of the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and a sister school in Kenosha County.

The authorization, needed by April 15 to advance planning at the needed pace to open the schools to students in September, 1969, will be considered by the sub-unit headed by Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, in a special meeting Thursday noon.

The delay came after a one hour meeting in Leonard's office in which he received reports from the state Bureau of Engineering raising the total cost of the Building Commission's approved campus planning concept almost $1 million to $13,029,000.

"Surge Space"
The concept envisions the start of third and fourth year operations in 1969 on the two campuses, a laboratory-classroom building, and temporary "surge" space at each school at the start.

The cost estimated by the bureau to the subcommittee a month ago totaled $12,499,000 for the two campuses.

The cost change was due to correcting an accounting procedure error in the Green Bay campus estimates, totaling about $200,000, plan changes due to power line problems on that site, and the remainder in cost changes shuffled between buildings on the two campuses.

The latter changes were due to more sophisticated planning constantly being evolved as the campuses move nearer construction.

The authorization which is needed would allow the bureau and the university, in conjunction with the special consultants hired for the two projects, to move ahead with additional advance planning and the start of actual working drawings for the first buildings.

The subcommittee also was told that a UW plan calling for the construction of a library-learning center on each campus, as well as the creation of all the other approved buildings, would hike the cost of the total two-campus project to $21,836,000 million.

Closing Centers
The subcommittee again took notice of a Coordinating Committee for Higher Education plan calling for the creation

NEW LONDON — Liquor valued at about $125 was taken in a burglary at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Club, Tuesday.

Patrolman Robert Webb discovered the burglary early Tuesday morning while checking the building. Webb found a window on the east side of the building had been broken.

Police said a lock on a storage cabinet had been pried off and the burglar had taken about 24 quarts of liquor, two quarts of wine, six half-pints of brandy, and nine cartons of cigarettes.

Council Changes Thinking on Park Development at Chilton

Propose LAWCON Funds
Be Used to Expand Hobart Area

CHILTON — The city council, along with costs of building new sewer systems at Hobart Park Tuesday night were told by Ald. Donald Parson, (3rd), committing head for the preliminary building a shelter house and plans in obtaining Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON). The long-range development funds for park purposes, that would include installing and plans for a park in the north-west section of the city could handle from 4,000 to 5,000 persons in a three to four day period and as few as 20 to 30 in a day. The additional land would be during the county fair, as Muehl, public works director, Hobart Park adjoins the fair grounds.

Draw Plans
After considerable discussion the council authorized the park committee, under the direction representatives at Madison and Muehl, to investigate the situation and draw up a plan for

Steinhilber Wants Delay for UW-GB

Enrollment Projections

MADISON — A move being developed by freshmen Republican Assemblymen would delay construction of the Universities of Wisconsin-Green Bay and Parkside at least two years, it was learned Wednesday.

The plan, which has not been translated into bill form, was discussed briefly in a Republican Assembly caucus Tuesday afternoon and among new members of the lower house Wednesday.

Author of the plan is Jack Steinhilber of Oshkosh, who would not identify other participants in the planning. Reportedly also involved are Assemblymen Tommy Thompson of Elroy and Sam Held of Milwaukee.

The plan, as yet, has little backing in the lower house, but Assembly majority leader David Martin of Neenah has been consulted on the move. He has declined to participate in the project, however.

Reasons Cited
Backers of the plan cite as their main reasons for the move claims that enrollment projections do not justify the creation of new schools during those years, continuing controversies over site problems, and the lawsuit over the Green Bay campus project.

They also contend that disputes over the development of the campuses as third and fourth year institutions or as full four-year universities make necessary a re-examination of the projects.

Unofficial reasons cited by at least one participant include opposition to the UW administration headed by President Fred Harvey Harrington.

"Some of the fellows don't want to give it to the UW because of Harrington and his administration," one source said. "Student unrest and demonstrations on the Madison campus have stirred legislative reactions to the UW leadership."

Martin cited as one reason for not joining in the movement the questioning as to enrollment statistics. Backers of the move have suggested that Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh might be able to accommodate the enrollment expected at the Green Bay school.

Disputed Plans
Martin, who has argued over plans to develop the school as a four-year university with educational leaders, backed the idea of creating the northeastern Wisconsin branch campus to backers of the move which could lead to reconsideration of the planning.

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, a leading opponent of the Green Bay site, said that while he had heard rumors of the moves, he was not involved. Froehlich missed the caucus due to illness.

Senate majority leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, whose co-operation would be needed in the moves, said when asked that he also had heard the rumors but that no official contacts had been made.

Leonard heads the Building Commission subcommittee which oversees the planning of the new campuses, and is committed publically to four-year development of the schools.

Cost of the building will be $20,000 with a $5,000 down payment and the balance paid over a five-year period. It will require approximately $10,000 to remodel the building for a youth center, he said.

Needs Remodeling
Some council members wanted to delay approval for two weeks, but Matheson said that the youth center committee would probably form a corporation and purchase the building if approval were not received by the city. If this happened, the city would lose control of the center's operation.

Ald. Robert Strebe, (5th) one of the councilmen who voted 'no' said the council was moving too fast. "I am not opposed to the youth center, and have already contributed to the fund, but the council should be sure it will not be stuck for paying for it if enough funds are not collected," Strebe said.

Ald. Stanley Salter, (5th) the other councilman who did not vote for the purchase, gave the same explanation as Strebe. Two councilmen were absent from the meeting.

Plan Drive
Matheson explained that an organized fund-raising drive has not started, but an estimated $9,000 already has been received or pledged. "With this amount of money already in, or pledged, it is indicated that over a five-year period there will be no difficulty in raising the required amount of money," Matheson said.

Ald. Leo Martin, (2nd), said the city already is spending $42,000 a year for recreation and wanted to know if the new youth center would require additional funds. Of the total recreation

PSC Approval
Before Starting

WAUPACA — The city council has approved a request by the Dependable Bus Line to start a bus route within the city on a two-month trial period starting June 1.

Approval by the State Public Service Commission will be required, however, before the route can be established.

In a letter to the council, Layner Moen, owner of the Dependable Bus Line which now operates between King and Waupaca, outlined the proposed route. He explained that 10 days prior to the end of the trial period the council would be notified if the service would continue to operate, depending upon public demand.

An adult fare of 20 cents would be charged and 10 cents for children under 12. The service would operate six days a week, Monday through Saturday.

Three Routes
A time schedule was not included in the letter but the three proposed routes outlined were: Route 1 would start from the present bus stop on S. Main Street and proceed south to South Park during summer months, east on Lake Street, south on Berlin Street to Bethany Home, north on Berlin, east on Park, south on Eighth Street to the hospital, east on Riverside Drive, north on 10th Street School and Badger Streets to the bus stop.

Route 2 would start from the South Main Street bus stop, east on Union, south on Division, east on Badger, north on State, east on E. Fulton, north on Osborn, (east on Ware and to the Country Club during the summer) west on Ware, north on Oak Street, west on Mill and Water streets to discharge passengers near the city hall.

Route 3 would start from the city hall, west on Granite, north on Washington, west on Wisconsin, south on Harrison, southwest on Hillcrest Drive, east on W. Fulton, south on Morton, east on Smith, north on Harrison, east on W. Fulton to the bus stop on S. Main.

In other action, a donation of $25 was given to the Weyauwega Public Library and the annual report, presented by Mrs. Leland Koehler, clerk, was accepted.

Housewife, 3 Men Lead
Cattle Through Flames

HORTONVILLE — A young housewife and three unidentified men led 10 head of cattle from a barn that was engulfed in flames late Wednesday afternoon on the William Schiedermayer farm, 2½ miles northwest of here on U. S. 45.

Mrs. Schiedermayer said she was working in the house when three men came to the door and told her smoke was coming from the barn, which was about 100 feet south of the house. She and the three men raced to the barn and began leading out the cows.

Mrs. Schiedermayer said that when they first spotted the fire, it appeared to be restricted, but by the time they began getting the cows out, it had spread throughout much of the interior of the 32 by 56 foot frame structure. Mrs. Schiedermayer said that fortunately, none of the cows balked at leaving the burning building.

Hay Lost
Some 300 to 400 bales of hay were lost in the blaze, Schiedermayer said. He was working at Ace Floor Covering Co. in Appleton when the fire broke out about 3:40 p.m.

Hortonville firemen, who were summoned by Mrs. Schiedermayer, said the fire spread so fast that the roof had collapsed by the time they arrived. Fire Chief Lawrence Mader said the flames were whipped by strong winds which carried sparks east across U.S. 45, and started small fires on the other side of the road. Firemen feared for a time that the sparks would touch off a fire in a barn across the road.

Threatened Building
Also threatened for a time was a large garage-type structure near Schiedermayer's barn. A small chicken coop beside the barn was leveled. There were no chickens in the building, Schiedermayer said.

About 25 firemen from Hortonville and the Town of Hortonville were at the scene with two trucks for about three hours. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined, not was an estimate of the loss, which Schiedermayer said is at least partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Schiedermayer said she did not have time to get the names of the men who helped her, but assumes they must have been driving by on 45 and saw the smoke. They reportedly left shortly after firemen arrived.

CLINTONVILLE — Pay increases for elected town officials and town labor were approved Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Town of Matteoson.

The hourly rate for town labor was increased to $1.75 from the present $1.25. A maximum of $3 per hour for the largest tractor used for town work was approved. The operator's pay will be in addition to this amount. The rate had been $2 an hour for the tractor and operator.

Waupaca Votes for Youth Center Purchase budget, Martin said $12,000 was allocated for the South Park swimming beach. He was told by Matheson that the new center would not require any more than the present center, located above Fischer's Dairy.

Matheson also explained that within the next year the entire city recreation program is going to be reorganized under the direction of Otis Foster, recreation director. The beach program would be continued under the direction of LeRoy Haberkorn, but other portions of the program would be changed, with several new programs for the youth added, he said. When the reorganization is completed, within a two-year period, it will be cheaper for the city, Matheson added.

When work on remodeling the new youth center will start is not known, Matheson said because a Waupaca trucking firm has a lease which does not expire until February 1968, but it is hoped that the firm will give up its lease.

Remodeling the building calls for installing a ceiling, paneling the walls, partitioning several rooms which will be used for a lunch counter, game rooms and a lounge, and installing rest rooms and a heating plant.

The committee has discussed having a program for elderly residents during the day when the center is not in use by students, Matheson said. Several councilmen voiced their approval of the idea.

Before the council meeting, a representative of the youth center committee said a fund raising drive will start within the next two weeks. Matheson explained that eight clubs and civic organizations, and some industries, already have made pledges for the center.

Grand Chute Plans Own Zone Law

Grand Chute electors showed disapproval of operating under county zoning ordinances Tuesday and approved adoption of a town ordinance in a referendum vote, 946-178.

The question was placed before the electorate as a direct result of a court decision allowing Stokely - Van Camp Inc. to build a migrant labor camp in the town.

A close four-way race for Town of Grand Chute supervisors saw incumbent Ira M. Livingston polling a combined 576 total for the two precincts, followed by Edward Ziegler with 550 votes.

Ziegler, in joining Livingston on the town board, replaces his brother, Herbert Ziegler, who did not seek re-election. Unsuccessful candidates for supervisor were Tom Foxgover and Ronald Haberland, with 450 and 505 votes, respectively.

In other contests, Eugene Paltzer retained his treasurer post by defeating George Froehlich 680 to 480, while John Arft remains constable by virtue of his 740-406 victory over David Neubert.

Re-elected without opposition were Chairman Thomas A. Thorson, Clerk Leslie C. Woldt and Assessor John Stevens.

But Bureau of Engineering analyst Gerald Germanson, $200,000 represents a minor segment of a $13 million budget, to Leonard and the subcommittee, said after the meeting that planning alterations could be made even after authorization for the current planning procedures was given. The CCHC plan, he says, does not call for different facilities, but only more than currently planned.

Leonard rejected a suggestion from commission secretary Gerald Emmer that $200,000 in surge space be cut from the Parkside plans to compensate for the $13 million cost estimate, about $200,000 over the plans already approved for the new schools.

The temporary space at Parkside is not a part of a major building as it is in the Green Bay plans, Emmer said, and therefore could be cut.
